

DEALERS TELL OF EFFECT OF PACKING MERGER ON TRADE

Commission Men Testify Livestock Sales Have Been Brisk Since Armour Bought Morris Plants.

FEAR COMPETITION WILL BE REDUCED

Counsel for Packers Object to Testimony on Ground Witnesses Did Not Qualify as Experts.

Although expressing the opinion that the purchase by Armour & Co. of the Morris & Co. packing plants for $10,000,000 would lessen competition and cause depression in the livestock market, National Stockyards commission men yesterday admitted that sales in the yards near East St. Louis had been more brisk since March 28 last, the date the sale became effective. The commission men were testifying before representatives of the Secretary of Agriculture at the Stockyards Exchange Building.

The hearing, which opened yesterday, and is expected to close late today or tomorrow, is one of a series being conducted in various cities on the complaint of the Secretary of Agriculture that the sale was in violation of Federal antitrust laws, and particularly of the packers and stockyards act of 1921. The contention of the Secretary is that the purchase created, or tends to create, a monopoly in the purchase of livestock, and in the sale of livestock products.

The first hearing was in Kansas City last week where commission men said that the purchase would reduce competition. The next hearing will begin Thursday at Omaha, after which there will be hearings at St. Joseph and Chicago.

Government Witnesses Examined. Only witnesses summoned by the Government are being examined at this time. Witnesses for the packers may be called after the Government has concluded its case in all cities. If the evidence is considered by the Secretary to uphold his complaint he will order the sale invalidated. Such an order will be fought in courts by the packers.

During the hearing at Kansas City last week, statements by commission men were published to the effect that the Government should have prevented the sale of the Morris plants by injunction, rather than seek to invalidate it by the courts. This resulted in the issuance by H. T. Hunter, counsel for the Secretary of Agriculture, of a statement that the Government was taking every legitimate means to ascertain whether the sale was illegal.

Commission men examined yesterday were Harry B. Carson, president of the St. Louis Livestock Exchange; Hampton H. Ray and E. L. Woodson.

Each was questioned as to the business of the National Stockyards and their connection with it. They agreed that prior to February, 1921, when the killing bins of Morris & Co.'s East Side plant burned, that company was one of the largest purchasers on the exchange.

Increase in Stock Purchases. Since the fire, they said, the company had purchased only a few thousand head of stock at National Stockyards up to March 28, but since then there has been a great increase in purchases for the account of Morris & Co. These purchases were later assigned to Armour & Co. plants, it was said.

Attorneys for the packers objected to questions as to the effect of the sale upon the market. They said such questions could only be answered by men who had studied all conditions affecting the market, and that commission men were not qualified as expert witnesses.

The packers are represented at the hearing by six attorneys. Nelson Morris, former chairman of the board of Morris & Co., was present. The Government has three attorneys. Chester I. Morrill is conducting the examination.

Eyewitness Describes Kidnaping Of Americans by Outlaws in China; Women Are Courageous

Wife of Army Major Falls from Exhaustion Fighting Desperately as Bandits Attempt to Take Her Three-Year-Old Son.

Lloyd Lehrbas, an American newspaper man, who was among those captured by Chinese brigands at Suchow, Sunday morning, but who escaped and made his way back to Shanghai, has written the following account of the kidnaping:

By LLOYD LEHRBAS. (Copyright, 1923.) SHANGHAI, May 8.—I believe that the bandits, in whose hands rests the fate of a dozen or so Americans, many additional citizens of other nations, and probably 150 Chinese will make a desperate fight before they can be forced to release their captives.

The brigands are well organized and appeared able to meet any attack. The fare of the heavy Shanghai farmer type, rascled, unkempt and wearing queues bound round their heads, which adds to the fierceness of their aspect.

They are all well armed with polished rifles and bandoliers crammed with cartridges. The foreigners in their power are having a hard time of it. When the bandits began their flight toward the mountains from the wrecked train, virtually all of the prisoners were in their bare feet, having just been aroused from sleep. The roughness of the ground over which the flight was made and the lightness of the clothing worn by the prisoners caused them intense suffering and threatened them with illness. All were in their night clothes.

The bandits gave no consideration to the women and children. They beat them with their rifles and spears upon them when they lagged. But in all this—despite their natural fright, exposure, terrible treatment and anxiety for their loved ones—the American women were most courageous.

Woman Drops From Exhaustion. Mrs. Roland W. Pinger, wife of Maj. Pinger of the Ordnance Department, U. S. A., walked until she dropped from exhaustion, carrying her 3-year-old son. As she fell she clasped him tightly to her body and when a bandit attempted to take the child from her she fought him like a tiger.

As she lay upon the ground she saw her 8-year-old son carried off by the bandits. She tried to get up, but she was too weak. She was lying on her back, her head resting on the ground, when she saw the bandits carrying off her son. She tried to get up, but she was too weak.

Mrs. Robert A. Allen, wife of Maj. Allen of the Medical Corps, U. S. A., and Mrs. Pinger were released. They were taken to a relief train, which went from Peking, and brought to Shanghai. On the train they were treated by a physician and given food for the first time in 12 hours. They were suffering from cuts and bruises and lacerated feet.

Here is the graphic story told by Mrs. Allen:

"I was forced from the train in my nightgown and in my bare feet. The robbers seemed to be in a great hurry and would give me no time to dress.

"The roadbed of the railway was made of sharp cinders and my feet were badly cut as I slipped and jumped down from the train steps.

"I was separated from my family at once. The train had been carefully searched. Fifteen of the bandits were carrying me in blankets swung over their shoulders.

"All were armed. Two of the Chinese, burly fellows with dark, evil faces, drove Mrs. Pinger and myself to the rear of the train. They carried long-barreled rifles in their hands.

"When our strength gave way they beat us and slapped us. Finally when we fell prostrate and were unable to move another foot, they left us there with a brigand standing guard over us.

Germany, it was pointed out, now has had the position of her last proposals shown her and she is realizing she cannot obtain the many advantages she hoped to gain through these proposals.

BRITAIN SENDS NOTE OF PROTEST TO SOVIET RUSSIA

English Mission at Moscow, Anticipating Break, Warns British to Be Prepared to Leave Country.

By the Associated Press. MOSCOW, May 8.—A long note reviewing the numerous British complaints against Soviet Russia, and couched in such strong terms that it may bring the Russo-British relations to an issue, was handed to Maxim Litvinoff, Assistant Commissar for Foreign Affairs, this afternoon, by the British representative, Robert M. Hodgson.

Anticipating a break in relations, the British mission several days ago warned all British citizens in Russia that, in view of the delicate situation, they should be prepared to leave the country on short notice. Instructions to issue such notifications are understood to have been sent by the British Foreign Office.

According to reports from Petrograd all exports to Great Britain have been stopped.

Note Complains About Discourteous Treatment. LONDON, May 8.—The British note to Russia, which Ronald McNeill, Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs, told the House of Commons had been sent to Moscow, is unofficially reported to be a strongly worded complaint against the discourteous treatment accorded the British protest in the Zepel case, the seizure of the British trader, James Johnson of the Murhan case, disregarding the recognized three-mile limit, and the brusque treatment given the British agent at Moscow.

The Undersecretary said he understood the Soviet Commissioner of Justice was considering cancellation of the verdict against the captain and crew of the vessel, and was making arrangements for the immediate return of the crew. The Government spokesman said he was not informed as to the captain who is believed to be still detained.

Meanwhile the British communists have taken a hand in the campaign against what they believe to be the imminent cancellation of the trade agreement with Russia. The communists have issued a manifesto calling for the organization of "councils of action" to prevent the closing of the headquarters of the Russian trade delegation in London. Such action, the manifesto asserts, would be "the first step to war."

2 MEN ROBBED (MO.) BANK; CASHIER LOCKED IN VAULT

Holdup Men Get $1460 Cash and Escape in Auto, Headed Toward Kansas City.

By the Associated Press. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 8.—The Farmers' State Bank of Gower, Mo., 22 miles southeast of here, was robbed by two men in a touring car, in which they had entered a tall and a short man, both wearing dark suits. The robbers, who were armed with pistols, entered the bank at 10:30 a. m. and forced the cashier to open the vault. They took $1460 in cash and escaped in a touring car, in which they had entered a tall and a short man, both wearing dark suits.

Map Showing Where Americans Were Kidnaped by Chinese Bandits

It was near Suchow, a city of more than 500,000 population and a silk industrial center, in Kiang-su Province, that Chinese bandits seized the Shanghai-Peking express train early last Sunday and carried away captive many passengers, including several Americans and other foreigners.

CITY OFFICIALS TO ASK SHIPPERS TO BOYCOTT WABASH

Continued From Page One. Instead, entered upon its antagonistic policy which it has constantly pursued since. Although the Missouri Public Service Commission has heard both sides in exhaustive hearings and held for the city plan and although no court in the last 19 years has seen fit to overturn any plan for grade separation approved by any State commission, the Wabash has announced its intention of continuing its fight in the Circuit Court, and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court, a procedure that will consume many years more.

Meanwhile, the rapid growth of the district beyond the Wabash tracks and contiguous to Delmar boulevard and the equally rapid development of University City has caused traffic over the grade crossing to increase rapidly. Delmar-Olive street cars, one of the most used lines in the city cross the tracks at a passage of a train, though the delay be ever so short, in each instance results in a great piling up of traffic on either side of the tracks.

Attitude of the Railroad. Officials of the railroad, feeling public criticism at this time, have declared that they have been ready since 1914 to eliminate the crossing if permitted to do so under its own plan.

The record in the case before the Public Service Commission does not substantiate this assertion. The record shows that the Wabash has never admitted the need for separation of grades exists and has asserted the crossing to be "one of the safest in America." It has consistently taken the position that there is no necessity for the elimination, but that if it is to be made in response to the demand of the public for its convenience and safety, the railroad should be permitted to proceed as it sees fit.

Further evidence of the attitude of the railroad has toward St. Louis, which he describes as "willing to take everything and give nothing," has been found by Charles F. Butts, engineer of the Department of Public Service of the city.

Damage Payment Cited. The ordinance under which Delmar boulevard was widened from a 60-foot to a 100-foot street, awarded the Wabash damages to its station property at Delmar on the theory that the widening would "compel moving the station several feet."

Records in the Comptroller's office show that award to have been $2,712.40 and that subsequently the railroad brought suit and recovered that sum plus 6 per cent interest, or a total of $3400.

However, Butts points out, though it collected the money to pay for removal, it never removed the station and it stands today encroaching upon the street line. Butts suggests that the city compel the railroad to move the station and to enter suit for back rental on ground improperly occupied.

Another Recent Incident. Butts further pointed out that recently when shippers on the levee adjoining a Missouri Pacific track Negro Woman and Daughter, Awaiting Call to Testify, Killed by Warden, Social Worker Asserts.

By the Associated Press. TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 8.—Nine convicts serving at the correction camp of State Senator T. J. Knab, in Baker County, met their deaths during last year, six of these dying since last September, the joint legislative committee investigating convict camp brutalities was told today by Mrs. Thelma Franklin, a social worker of Glen St. Mary, in Baker County.

Mrs. Franklin declared she had conducted a personal investigation into the records, which showed that a coroner's inquest had been held over each and that death, "according to jury verdicts in each instance, was "due to natural causes."

Two members of the committee jumped to their feet and Senator Knab severed another in his chair, when Mrs. Franklin related that Mary Sheffield, a negro woman, and her daughter, said to have been about 20 years of age, were shot and killed last Wednesday by Warden Thompson, one of the Knab camps. The Sheffield women were in a hospital, having been cut by the women.

5000 PAYROLL TAKEN IN HOLDUP ON COUNTY BRIDGE

Auto of Louis Skrainka, Containing Satchel of Money, Taken in Maplewood, Three Blocks From Office.

CROWDED OVER BY A MARMON CAR

Compartment of Skrainka's Machine, Containing Cash, Opened With Key on Ring With Auto Key.

Louis Skrainka of 4318 West Pine boulevard, president of the Skrainka Construction Co. and vice president of the Big Bend Quarry Co., was robbed of about $5000 at the Belt bridge, Laclede Station road and Wall street, in Maplewood, at 2:30 p. m. yesterday, according to his report to the Maplewood police. The money, which was in a satchel in the rear compartment of Skrainka's Dodge automobile, was for the monthly payroll of the quarry employees and of truck drivers who work under contract with the quarry firm, more than 100 men in all. Skrainka said there was more than $5000 and that the money was in individual envelopes, and was, so far as possible, in $20 bills, with some $10 and $100 bills for the truck drivers, who are paid for the use of their machines.

Held Up on Bridge.

The scene of the robbery is three blocks away from the quarry office, which was Skrainka's destination, as he was driving upon the bridge. Skrainka was crowded to one side by an approaching Marmon car, and he stopped. Two men got out of the Marmon car, he said afterward, with handkerchiefs over their faces, displayed sawed-off shotguns. Skrainka said the men demanded the payroll money, and that he took a bankbook and some envelopes from his pocket, and handed them over, hoping the men would let him go. They were getting the payroll money. He kept $250, belonging with the payroll money, in his pocket.

The men ordered Skrainka out of the car, and the two got into it. Skrainka said the Marmon car, which had remained in the Marmon, drove that car after them. The key to the rear compartment of Skrainka's car, which was the grip containing the money, was on a ring with the key which he had left in the ignition lock. The robbers opened the rear compartment and took the grip.

Robbers abandon Two in Hill Road. The Dodge car was abandoned and the three went on in the Marmon. At Gravois road they were seen to leave the Marmon car and ride away in a roadster, in which a fourth man had met them. This car went east on Gravois toward the city, with four men occupying the seating space for two.

The Marmon car was later claimed by its St. Louis owner, from whom it was stolen April 21. A family which saw the transfer from the Marmon to the roadster was at such a distance that they did not see the men's faces.

BRIGAND BAND SCATTERS INTO HILLS; DIVIDE UP HOSTAGES

Miss MacFadden and Miss Schonberg are now safe in Tsinanfu. T. H. Day of Ridgewood, N. J., escaped from the bandits and arrived safely in Tien Tsin.

Robert Scripps was not on the wrecked train and has arrived in Pekin.

Measures Henry Zimmerman and T. Hainovitch, Americans, escaped after the wreck and reached Tien Tsin May 8.

The following have not been heard from and evidently are still being held captive: Maj. Pinger and Mrs. Henry, Mr. Lewis, C. C. Solomon, J. B. Powell, L. Friedman, Mr. Lebrass escaped and Thomas of Oliver & Co. New York City, was released.

"It is reported that all the women have been released while the men are being held for ransom."

"Fourteen men, Americans and other nationalities, are still held."

"The department has been advised by Minister Schurman that at a conference with the Chinese military corps (the Portuguese Minister) and the British and Italian Ministers, it was decided that the Chinese Government should at once ransom our nationals and that punitive measures should be taken against the bandits afterwards."

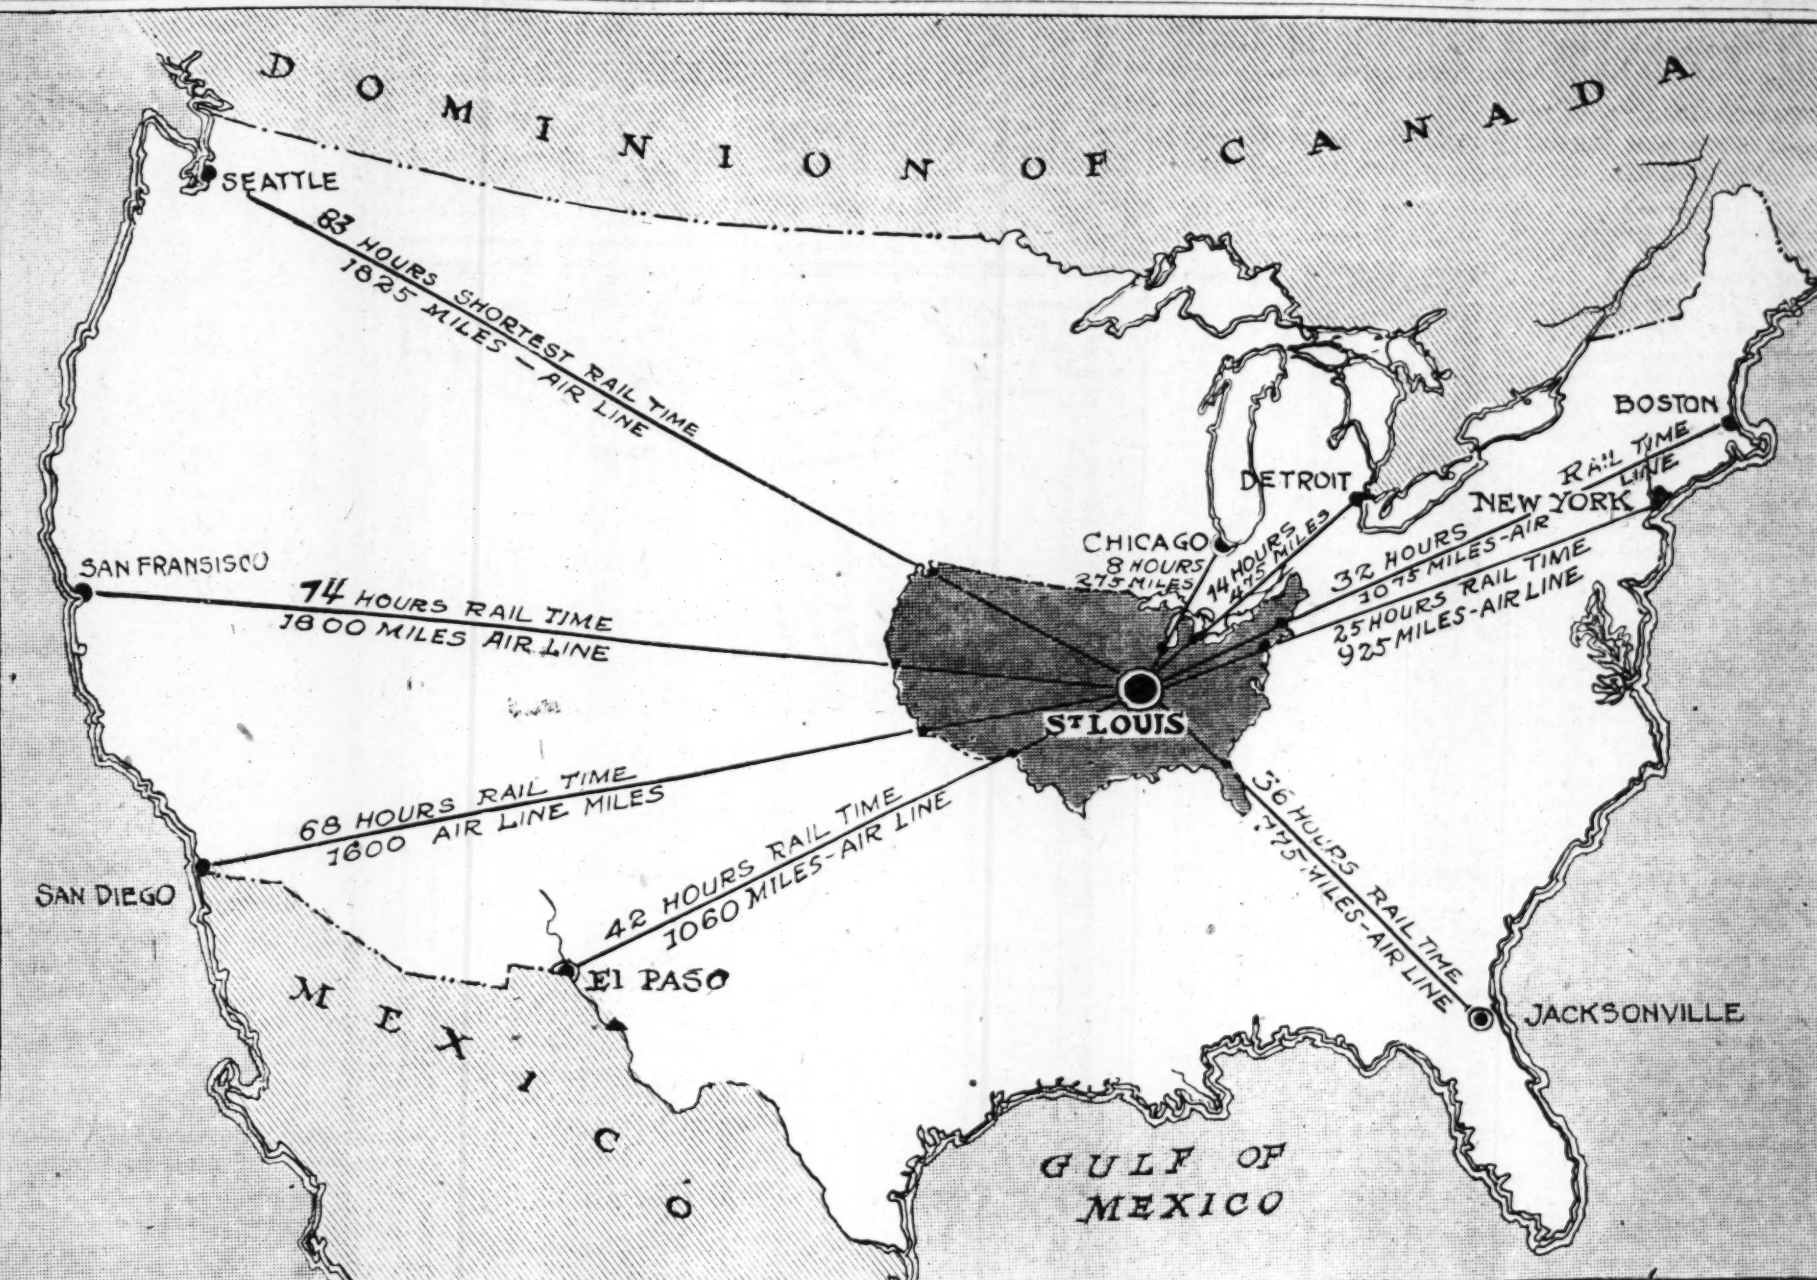

Secretary Hughes presented a report on the situation at the Cabinet meeting today, detailing the information received by the State Department. The President and his advisers discussed the matter in a general way, but it was said no conclusions were reached with respect to future action.

Foreign Diplomats Confer on Plans to Cope With Situation.

How Airplane Speed Annihilates Distance and Brings Remote Points of the Country Close to St. Louis

THIS double map, with its proportions drawn as accurately as possible, visualizes the significance to St. Louis of the transcontinental non-stop flight of Lieuts. Kelly and MacReady in shrinking distances in comparison with present forms of transportation. Air experts believe that the day is not far distant when the Kelly-Mac-

Ready feat will be a matter of every day life and that the air will be filled with "planes" carrying passengers and lighter freight and express.

The transcontinental flyers demonstrated that they could go from New York to St. Louis, Cal., in slightly more than one-fourth the time required by rail. It is upon this basis that the distances of the smaller map within the larger were computed. It represents the relative size of the country with our transportation as compared to its dimensions today with rail transportation. Thus, while it requires about 74 hours from St. Louis to San Francisco by rail, it would take about 18 hours to go by airplane at the average speed made by

Kelly and MacReady of 90 to 100 miles per hour; about 20 hours to Seattle, compared with 83 hours by rail; 17 to 18 hours to San Diego, compared with 68 hours by rail; 8 hours to Jacksonville, Fla., compared with 36 hours by rail; 3 hours to Chicago to 8 hours by rail; about 10 hours to Boston, compared with 32 hours by rail; 8 hours to New York, compared with 25 hours by rail. The airplane traffic would profit greatly by ability to proceed by air line while railroads have to make many detours because of topographical conditions. With the increased speed that is certain to be developed in time, these differences would, of course, be proportionately reduced.

Miss Aldrich and Companion in Hospital at Tsinanfu.

By the Associated Press.

TIEN-TSIN, China, May 8.—Messrs. Day and Jacobson and Miss Corall, three of the foreigners who escaped from the bandits who raided the Pekin express at Suchow, arrived here this morning. They said that Miss Lucy T. Aldrich, her companion, Miss Minnie McFadden, and Miss Schonberg had stopped in Tsinanfu, where they were admitted to a hospital suffering from shock. Their feet were cut and bruised.

Day, an American, said the bandits split the captives into several parties after forcing them to leave the train. The prisoners, guarded heavily, were brutally hurried into the hilly country which is the stronghold of the bandits.

"If a prisoner lagged he was produced with a rifle butt," said Day. "We had to take the roughest paths. It was useless to protest and strict silence was enforced. Anyone speaking was mercilessly hit. I was struck on the forehead with a Mauser for talking to my neighbor."

The air of the bandits, Day continued, is a village in the hills, enclosed by a stone compound. Within an hour or two after the arrival of the prisoners soldiers appeared outside the town and soon a lively engagement was in progress.

The brigands' chieftain persuaded Day to take a note to the commander of the military forces informing him that if the fire did not stop the captives would be shot. Day had a harrowing experience in making his way across the open ground to the troops as he was between two fires. Day delivered his message, whereupon the commander of the troops ordered them to cease firing, but the force did not withdraw. Remaining with the military, Day started a search for some of the other prisoners and came upon Miss Schonberg sitting on a boulder, exhausted. She, like the others, had escaped when dispatched as a messenger. Jacobson, however, knocked out

PEKIN, May 8.—Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr. and daughter of the late Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, became separated from her traveling companion, Miss McFadden, when Chinese bandits took captive the passengers on the Pekin Express. Miss Aldrich and Miss McFadden, falling in the hands of different squads of bandits, arrived at Tsinan separately and rejoined at a hospital, where they were attended.

From Standard Oil Co. channels it is reported that the condition of the two women is not serious.

Robert Scripps, the publisher, who at first was reported a captive, has arrived in Pekin.

Scripps, who was on the train that followed the hapless Shanghai-Pekin express, later boarded the relief train and found Miss McFadden aboard. She told him she had spent two days in captivity, isolated from the other women, who were released early in the morning of the holdup. They were ordered to deliver the message that the prisoners would be able evening.

OPEN AIR PLAY POSTPONED

As the weather threatened to turn the title into reality, there has been a postponement of the performance of "The Winter's Tale," which was to have been given tonight in the open-air theater on Liggett terrace by the Theater Association of Washington University.

Conditions permitting, the performance will be given tomorrow night; and if not, on the first favorable evening.

Miss Aldrich and Companion in Hospital at Tsinanfu.

By the Associated Press.

TIEN-TSIN, China, May 8.—Messrs. Day and Jacobson and Miss Corall, three of the foreigners who escaped from the bandits who raided the Pekin express at Suchow, arrived here this morning. They said that Miss Lucy T. Aldrich, her companion, Miss Minnie McFadden, and Miss Schonberg had stopped in Tsinanfu, where they were admitted to a hospital suffering from shock. Their feet were cut and bruised.

Day, an American, said the bandits split the captives into several parties after forcing them to leave the train. The prisoners, guarded heavily, were brutally hurried into the hilly country which is the stronghold of the bandits.

"If a prisoner lagged he was produced with a rifle butt," said Day. "We had to take the roughest paths. It was useless to protest and strict silence was enforced. Anyone speaking was mercilessly hit. I was struck on the forehead with a Mauser for talking to my neighbor."

The air of the bandits, Day continued, is a village in the hills, enclosed by a stone compound. Within an hour or two after the arrival of the prisoners soldiers appeared outside the town and soon a lively engagement was in progress.

The brigands' chieftain persuaded Day to take a note to the commander of the military forces informing him that if the fire did not stop the captives would be shot. Day had a harrowing experience in making his way across the open ground to the troops as he was between two fires. Day delivered his message, whereupon the commander of the troops ordered them to cease firing, but the force did not withdraw. Remaining with the military, Day started a search for some of the other prisoners and came upon Miss Schonberg sitting on a boulder, exhausted. She, like the others, had escaped when dispatched as a messenger. Jacobson, however, knocked out

"HOME, SWEET HOME" 100 YEARS OLD TODAY

England and America Celebrating Covent Garden Event With Song Programs.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The 100th anniversary of the first singing of "Home, Sweet Home," in Covent Garden, London, will be celebrated today on both sides of the Atlantic. England has planned appropriate exercises, while the chief ceremonies in the United States will be staged at Easthampton, Long Island, and in this city.

The words of the celebrated song—"Incorporated in the opera 'Clari, or the Sweet Maid of Milan'"—were written by an American, John Howard Payne, who was born in New York City and spent his boyhood in Easthampton, where stands the old homestead which inspired the song. The music was composed by Sir Henry Bishop.

Suitable exercises will be held at the homestead, while in New York schools 900,000 children will chant the air, which later will be sung in front of City Hall by a selected chorus.

Moved Thousands to Tears.

"Home, Sweet Home," which was placed in the second act of the opera, was popular from the start. It spread rapidly throughout the English-speaking world, bringing tears to the eyes of countless thousands.

Payne used to tell his friends that he caught the air from a little girl during a trip through Italy.

The words of the song, Payne said, came to him while he was a student at Union College in Schenectady, N. Y., when he recalled his boyhood days on the Long Island farm.

Contrary to the general belief, Payne was not a penniless wanderer when he wrote the words of the song. He was in Paris at the time, living in comfortable quarters with Washington Irving.

Born in a little red brick house in lower Manhattan, on June 9, 1791, Payne was the sixth child of William Payne, later principal of a school at Easthampton, and a Jewish mother.

He spent the greater part of his early childhood in Easthampton in the old homestead which is still standing and open to visitors. A replica of his childhood home has been erected in Washington as a permanent exhibit of the better homes movement.

Payne's family moved to Boston, where he received most of his early education. While there he showed the greatest interest in the theater and expressed the desire to be an actor, but he was placed in a New York counting house to be a business man at the age of 13.

His Abilities Discovered.

He secretly published "The Theatrical Mirror," which attracted the attention of the editor of the New York Evening Post to the unusual abilities of the boy. Through his friends' efforts, Payne was sent to Union College, where he devoted as much time to amateur theatricals as he did to his studies.

The death of his mother and the failure in business of his father led the family to consent to his becoming an actor. He was a successful actor while in his teens, but a quarrel with his manager led him to leave for London in 1813 at the age of 22.

He was successful on the English stage, but although he had won the approbation and friendship of men like Coleridge, Southey and Thomas Moore, he was not satisfied. He left the stage and began to write. It was at that period that he wrote the opera "Clari."

Confirmation has been received from Coffin of the acceptance by Sadi Lecointe, noted French aviator, of an invitation to enter the Pulitzer race. Coffin has just returned from abroad. Lecointe's acceptance, in the opinion of members of the St. Louis Air Board, gives assurance that leading airmen of other European countries will take part also.

KILLS MAN WITH RAZOR
WHEN HIT WITH CLUBIllinois Mechanic Tells of Being Threatened by Gang at Mining Camp Saloon.

George Ferkoff, 35 years old, a coal miner, was slashed to death with a razor last night by Orie Dallas, an automobile mechanic, on the front porch of the Dallas home, at Carbon, a small mining settlement near O'Fallon, Ill. Dallas was taken to the Belleville jail, where he gave the following account of the affair to Sheriff Martin Schnipper:

He had forbidden his younger brother, Fred Dallas, to frequent a soft-drink saloon conducted by Francis Foster, and had refused to pay for drinks which Fred had purchased at the saloon. This angered Foster, he said, and he was warned that "the gang" at Foster's was going to beat him.

At 8 o'clock last night, while he was shaving, Orie Dallas heard footsteps on the front porch. He went to the door with his razor in his hand. Ferkoff was outside with a club. He pulled Dallas to the porch and struck him on the head. Dallas dropped to his knees and as he was getting up he slashed Ferkoff across the throat with the razor. Ferkoff died a few minutes later.

Sheriff Schnipper later raided Foster's saloon, and arrested Foster and several other men at witnesses. The Sheriff stated that shortly before he arrived at Foster's place a quantity of home brew was dumped into a cistern behind the saloon.

BARNES SAYS FOREIGN AND
RAIL AFFAIRS MAY BE ISSUESAnnual Convention of the U. S.
Chamber of Commerce Assembles in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce opened today with several thousand delegates in attendance, will be devoted to a presentation of facts concerning domestic and international problems.

Foreign relations and the transportation question loom as important issues for the next presidential campaign, Julius H. Barnes, president of the chamber, said.

Help for Europe in eliminating the war menace and getting her man power back to a productive basis, and for American railroads in solving the problem of service with judicious regulation are expected to be recommended by committee.

Henry S. Dennison, president of the Dennison Manufacturing Co., advocated a system of promotions for postoffice workers which would eliminate the rule that a Postmaster must be a resident of the city where he is appointed. He also advocated an indefinite term of office for the Postmaster-General.

Cocoon Oil Makes a Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very very harmful. Multisided cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Multisided in a cup of glass with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub the Multisided in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisided cocoon oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisided.

CORNS Stop their pain this safe way

Now!—you can end the pain of corns. In one minute Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads will do it—safely! They remove the cause—friction—pressure. Thus you avoid infection from cutting your corns or using corrosive acids. Thin, antiseptic, waterproof. Sizes for corns, callouses, bunions. Get a box today at your druggist's or shoe dealer's.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads Put one on—the pain is gone!

During 1932 the Post-Dispatch printed 15,587 Lost and Found "Wants"—2030 more than the THREE other St. Louis newspapers combined—and more than TWICE as many as the nearest competitor.

LEADS POLICE TO BODYConfesses at Los Angeles Hospital That He Shot Mrs. Jane Kelso Following Quarrel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—"I'll show you the way to the woman's body," said Joseph Becker, Salt Lake realty man, as a police ambulance drove up to the entrance to Elysian Park in answer to a call Sunday night. After the woman's body was placed in the ambulance, Becker jumped on behind and rode to the Receiving Hospital. At the hospital a police surgeon found three bullet holes, one through the heart.
"Why, this woman didn't shoot herself," declared a nurse. "I wonder how it could have happened."
Then Becker, according to the police, in a matter of fact tone, said:
"Why, I shot her."
All night long Becker kept saying:
"I don't know why I killed her, but I loved her."
Jane H. Kelso, the woman, was a clerk in the Postoffice. She was 42 and the support of a little family, including two nieces, a nephew and an infant child. They had lived with her for 10 years, coming from St.
Louis, where an invalid and widowed mother was unable to care for her family.
Becker told the police: "It was love that prompted me. She promised to marry me. That was Feb.
22. We had a misunderstanding last night. I made an engagement with her. She spoke of 'another man' back East; that all she could be to me was a sister. She said she had changed her mind about marrying me. I shot her once, she moved toward me. I think I shot three times, then I fell across her body and wept."
Stubs in his check book showed Becker to have $1611.59 on deposit here. A stub, bearing the date April 20, was made out to "J. B. Kelso, loan, $300.55."

CITY MAY DEMAND 25 PER CENT CUT IN ELECTRIC RATES

Reduction to Be Asked For in Near Future, Declares
Assistant City Counselor
Dolan, at Capital Hearing.

UNION ELECTRIC'S PROSPERITY CITED

St. Louis Resisting Application
by Company to Absorb
38 Utility Properties in Small Towns of State.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 8.—The city of St. Louis in the near future will demand a reduction, perhaps of 25 per cent, in the electric rates of the Union Electric Light and Power Co., Charles J. Dolan, Assistant City Counselor, announced here last night.

His statement was made at the conclusion of a hearing in which the city had resisted an application by Union Electric for permission of the State Public Service Commission to absorb 38 electric, water and gas properties in small towns of Missouri, at an initial cash outlay of approximately $2,700,000.

Louis H. Egan, president of Union Electric, said it was proposed to pay for these properties out of the $7,000,000 cash which the Union Electric has in bank. That fact, the admitted prosperity of the company and the ease with which it paid dividends of 9 per cent in 1919 and 1920 and 10 per cent in 1921 and 1922 on common stock and 7 per cent on preferred, despite unfavorable operating conditions during a part of that period, indicates that the time has arrived to pass some of the prosperity along to the current-consuming public of St. Louis, Dolan said.

Objects to Prices Named.
Dolan expressed the hope that the Public Service Commission, if it permits the Union Electric to take over the rural properties at all, will not allow it to pay anything like the prices it desires to pay to the North American Co., its parent, which has obtained title to the outlying plants and now seeks to vest them in the St. Louis corporation.

Dolan brought out in cross-examination Egan before the commission that the value of Union Electric property which is admittedly prosperous, is about $37,000,000, and that its 1923 income was about $12,000,000 or approximately one-third its value. Yet the Union Electric desires to pay to the North American Co., its parent or rather grandparent, there being an intervening subsidiary between the North American and the Union Electric, prices for the 38 properties referred to, which are four times their operating revenue for 1922. And only one or two of the entire lot has paid dividends in the last five years.

View of City Representatives.
Dolan, A. L. H. Shepley, legal representative of Director of Public Utilities Hooke, C. E. Smith, consulting engineer to the city, and R. Toensfeldt, city engineer, made no effort to conceal their belief that the sellers of the 38 rural utilities had driven a hard bargain with the North American Co.

It is known that President Egan long has had ambitious dreams of a little electric empire in Eastern Missouri to be dominated by Union Electric. He admitted to the commission yesterday that he had "had an eye" on the Southeast Missouri lead belt for a long time as a virgin market for electric current and had investigated it thoroughly years ago and knew how much current it could consume. The belt, however, had been tapped in an unprofitable manner by the Missouri Public Utilities Co., which, along with the Western Power and Light Co. and four other companies concerned in the proposed merger, were the property through various subsidiary devices of the Light and Development Co., a St. Louis concern of which Hugo Wurdack was the driving force.

Position of Wurdack's Companies.
Wurdack's companies, which between the Union Electric and undisputed domination of the entire Eastern Missouri field if the relatively small electric business in St. Louis of the Laclede Gas Light Co. be disregarded. Then, Union Electric, through the North American again, is building a tremendous generating plant at East St. Louis, from which it will have a large surplus of current for several years. A market for that surplus had to be provided.

Wurdack bought property in North St. Louis and public utility men whisper that he was trying to raise money—$6,000,000, in fact—to build a generating plant with which to go after St. Louis business in vigorous fashion. The North American naturally frowned upon competition, with itself, at least, so in March last it acquired control of the Light and Development Co., paying in round numbers $5,200,000. It thus wiped off the slate its only real competitor in the St. Louis territory. Engineers and attorneys for the city say that the prices paid are outrageous, if the public has been given all of the facts, which they assume is the case. And they object strenuously that the North American should not reimburse itself out of surplus cash which has been piled up out of the pockets of St. Louis current users for having disposed of its chief competitor.

Egan Questioned.
"Why cannot the North American continue to hold these various properties, and have them buy current from the Union Electric if that is more economical than allowing them to produce it?" Shepley asked Egan yesterday.

"Unified corporate control of the properties is more advantageous in many ways," Egan responded. "It is especially desirous from the standpoint of financing. A great strong company like ours can borrow money cheaply, while small weak ones have to pay high rates."

"Isn't the primary object in this merger to enable the placing of the assets and credit of the Union Electric back of the weak properties?" Shepley continued.

JOHN J. BARRY POLICE
CHIEF OF EAST ST. LOUIS

Frank B. Bolte Made Chief of Fire Department by Board of Commissioners.

John J. Barry was appointed Chief of Police and Frank B. Bolte chief of the Fire Department in East St. Louis by the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners today, in accordance with a City Council caucus decision made Sunday. Barry was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the office of Sheriff of St. Clair County in the last election. Bolte is a brother-in-law of Mayor Stephens and served as chief of the Fire Department 20 years ago. Since that time he has been an electrician.

The appointment of Walter Flannigan to be City Comptroller, succeeding J. M. Gucker, was the remainder of the Council's appointment list will be made up Thursday.

Three new firemen were named—Michael Posage, Peter Lannigan and William Wolf—all of whom have been in the department before. Patrick Ryan, a former city detective, was reinstated as a patrolman, and Andrew Prader appointed as probationary patrolman.

GANG LEADER WINS SUIT TO RECOVER REVOLVERS

Edward J. (Jelly Roll) Hogan, 3035 Cass avenue, former Deputy State Beverage Inspector, former member of the State Legislature and leader of the gang which bears his name, yesterday won a replevin suit to get back two automatic pistols and two revolvers, which city detectives seized June 5, last. The case was heard in the court of Justice of the Peace Miles. The city will appeal to the Circuit Court.

Hogan has had the weapons since April 17, having given a replevin bond. Justice Miles decided that he could keep them.

They were found in Hogan's automobile when it was searched by detectives at Sixth street and Lucas avenue, and when a loaded "police positive" revolver was found in his pocket. The latter weapon was held as evidence. The case came up before Circuit Judge Falkenhainer April 17, but was continued to June 5 because the revolver held as evidence was missing from the Sheriff's custody.

OFFICIAL SLAIN IN STREET

Texan Killed When Escorting Slay-er's Divorced Wife.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., May 8.—A. A. Poteet, 41 years old, Commissioner of Finance and Records of the city of Port Arthur, was shot to death here last night by T. B. Peart, who approached Poteet as he was walking along the street in company with Peart's divorced wife. Peart surrendered immediately after the shooting.

CITY OFFICIALS TO ASK SHIPPERS TO BOYCOTT WABASH

"Not at all," replied Egan. "The benefit in financing will come from their association with Union Electric, whose assets will not in fact be back of them."

But the commissioners were re- spective and frowned on further question along this line, so Shepley was obliged to forego further inquiry in this direction.

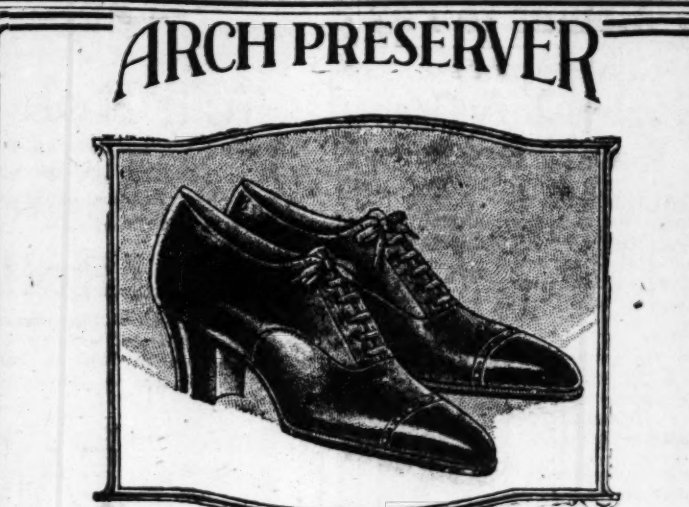

Sees Value in Properties.

Egan insisted that the properties which his company desires to take over are worth 10 per cent more than the proposed purchase price, and that they can be made very valuable with efficient management.

The Union Electric wants to buy outright the companies operating the Cupples Station Light, Heat and Power plant in St. Louis, the St. Charles Electric Light and Power plant, the Cape Girardeau-Jackson Interurban line, which in reality is the Cape Girardeau street car line, and the Iron County electric light and power plant, paying $1,535,307 and taking on liability for debts, bringing the purchase price to $2,217,659 on properties that made a net profit last year, after interest was paid, of less than $2000. It also wants to buy outright the electric business and plants of the Western Power and Light Co. in nine towns in St. Louis County for $388,571, the gross income of which last year was $26,699, and to lease for five years with the idea of ultimate absorption 25 electric, water and gas properties of the Missouri Public Utilities Co. for $240,000 a year. This would be a yearly return of 12 per cent on the $1,000,000 of stock and $1,000,000 of bonds of that company which are outstanding.

Chairman Kurtz of the Public Service Commission said after the hearing he did not know when a decision would be given. He had no idea that the commission would order appraisal of the properties involved before approving the transfer, if it should decide upon that course. Similar expansions under somewhat different conditions, however, have been permitted by the commission in Western Missouri where two transmission line systems, each supplying a large number of small towns from centrally located plants, have been built up.

The rate schedule of Union Electric is complicated by many classifications. In illustration—there are several different rates for householders, based on the number of rooms to be illuminated. A four-room householder pays at a different rate than a five-room householder. There is a similar sliding scale for industrial consumption.

EARLY TRIAL OF COLUMBIA MOB CASES INDICATED

All of Five Men Under Indictment Probably Will Be Tried at June Term, Judge Says.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 8.—An early trial of the five men accused in indictments of having participated in the lynching of James T. Scott, a negro, in Columbia, the morning of April 29, today was indicated by Judge Gantt of Mexico, who is sitting in the Circuit Court in place of Judge Hays, who is ill.

Judge Gantt said today that while it would be impossible to set the cases for the present term of court, because of the crowded condition of the docket, it was probable that all would be set for the June term, which begins June 18.

All of the indicted men entered pleas of not guilty before Judge Gantt this morning, but the setting of the cases for trial was postponed until afternoon.

Former State Senator Frank Harris of Columbia is attorney for all except Hamp H. Rowland, a farmer, charged with obstructing an officer, Congressman Sam Major of Fayette represented Rowland.

Batterman Arrested.
Elmer Wood, one of the men arrested yesterday on a charge of obstructing an officer, is a member of Headquarters Battery, 128th Field Artillery, which was ordered out to suppress the mob, but which could not be mobilized in time to prevent the lynching. Col. John S. Williams, commander of the 128th Field Artillery, said today there would be no court-martial proceedings against Wood.

The civil law will take care of the matter," Col. Williams said, "and there will be no court-martial. My statement last week that if a member of the battery was involved in the lynching he would be court-martialed referred only to the member who was on guard at the time across the street from the jail. He was on duty at the time and remained at the duty to which he had been assigned."

East of Arrests Made.
The last of the arrests on the indictments was made this morning when Estill Davis, a carpenter's helper, and a son of Ira Davis, a Columbia contractor, surrendered, his father is a member of the Columbia City Council. Davis was released on a $5000 bond. The charge against him is obstructing an officer.

The only first degree murder indictment returned by the grand jury was against George Backwell, a contractor. He is at liberty on a $20,000 bond.

50 PERSONS OVERCOME BY SMOKE IN NEW YORK SUBWAY

Short Circuit Causes Fire at Rush Hour, Some Passengers Fight Way to Air.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Fifty persons were overcome by smoke at last night's rush hour when a short circuit started a fire in the East Side subway of the Interborough company at Sixty-eighth street and Lexington avenue. Five of these persons were made seriously ill and were taken to hospitals. The others were able to go home after emergency treatment.

Passengers of a 10-car train became excited when smoke filled the cars. Some of them smashed windows and fought their way to emergency exits, although the majority waited until the station at Sixty-eighth street was reached, where 30 were removed by ambulance surgeons and police.

At Eighty-sixth street 20 more were found to be overcome by the smoke and they, too, were taken into the air.

FUNERAL OF SLAIN DETECTIVE

American Legion to Furnish Firing Squad of Eight Men.

Both the Police Department and the American Legion will serve at the military funeral of Detective William Carroll, who accidentally was shot and killed by his walking partner yesterday while they were chasing a negro. The Walter Hatzfeld Post of the American Legion will furnish a firing squad of eight men and two pallbearers.

The other pallbearers will be policemen. The Police Zouaves, to which Carroll belonged, will march in the procession, as will the Police Band. Members of the band will blow taps as the concluding ceremony at the grave.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, 3441 Page avenue, at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow, to St. Ann's Church, Page and Whittier avenues. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

BRITON SHOT IN MOSCOW

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, May 8.—Henry Shoggett, a member of the British Mission, was seriously wounded last night when his official automobile was boarded by a bandit who was trying to escape from the scene of a burglary.

The man was fired upon by the pursuing militia and a bullet struck Shoggett in the head. L. Patterson, another Briton, who was riding in the machine, was not harmed. Great Britain accepts the incident as a regrettable coincidence.

DISAPPEARANCE FROM RUSSIA SOVIET RET

Nearly All the Independents Killed or Exiled Out by Persecution

Following is the third of a series of articles on conditions in Russia by Francis McCullagh, a noted war correspondent, whose account of the trial of Catholic prelates in Russia was published in the Post-Dispatch. He recently left Russia after having been there since September. He speaks Russian and served on a British mission attached to Admiral Kolchak's ill-fated adventure. McCullagh writes in condemnation of the Soviet officials and policies.

(Copyright, 1922, by the New York Herald Tribune.) WASHINGTON, April 21.—The "living church" movement is nominally a reformist movement within the Russian orthodox church, but really a political move inaugurated by the Bolsheviks and directed by a group of clerical opportunists, none with any deep religious feeling, some former spies of the Cheka, and all hating the Patriarch on personal if not theological grounds. It has nothing in common with the Protestant reformation, Calvinism or Puritanism, which derived their driving force from men with the strongest religious convictions, and nothing good can be expected from it, though indirectly it may do good by persecuting and purifying the old Russian Church, and forcing the Russians to examine seriously the foundations of their faith, which were accepted previously without such examination.

Already it is leading many Russians to join Western communions which is bad for bolshevism, as these communions are tougher and more virile, less accustomed to turn the other cheek, whereas orthodoxes damaged by servility to czarism, passive and Oriental.

Sure to Anger Outside Bodies. Hence Europe's and America's slight interest in the murder of more than 1000 Russian priests in the last five years. But the number of Russian Baptists and Catholics speaking the wide European and Jewish are synonymous. The Vatican is changing all this and is considering a scheme for sending foreign priests, not Polish citizens, to Russia. Probably many American Catholic clergymen will be invited to volunteer.

The Catholic diocese of New York probably will be asked to adopt St. Catherine's Church in Petrograd, where Archbishop Zepi and Vice-General Butskavitch fled, but which is now closed, as devastated French towns have been adopted by French and American cities. Other American dioceses similarly will adopt other Catholic churches in Russia. Doubtless American Baptists and other will pursue the same policy, will link Russia spiritually with America as they never before have been linked.

Moreover, the Vatican is pushing the Uniat Church, that is the Russian Church, with the Russian language and ritual and a married clergy, but acknowledging the Pope. It opened a church in Moscow served by a former Orthodox priest but this was closed by the bolsheviks. In Rome it recently opened the Russian Institute, for the education of priests in the Russian rites. The institute is under the direction of the Dniepropetrovsk, a French Jesuit specializing on Russia and author of a book called "The Russian Church."

WARSAW, April 21.—The "living church" movement is nominally a reform movement within the Russian orthodox church, but really a political move inaugurated by the bolsheviks and directed by a group of clerical opportunists, none with any deep religious feeling, some former spies of the Czecha, and all hating the Patriarch on personal or theological grounds.

Already it is leading many Russians to join Western communions, which is bad for bolshevism, as those communions are tougher than the Russian church, and are accustomed to turn the other cheek, whereas orthodox, damaged by servility to czarism, is passive and Oriental.

Sure to Anger Outside Bodies.
Hence Europe and America's slight interest in the murder of more than 1000 Russian priests in the last five years. But the number of Russian Baptists and Catholics and Jews, etc., is sure to anger powerful religious bodies outside, as the Jewish pogroms in czarist times aroused outside hatreds, which infinitely harmed czarism.

Baptist and Evangelical movements, especially in Petrograd, have been extraordinarily successful. The Catholic movement, on the other hand, being associated with the Poles, who, for nationalistic reasons, hate Russia so that in ordinary Russian speech the words Catholic and Polish are synonymous. The Vatican is changing all this and is considering a scheme for sending foreign priests, not Polish citizens, to Russia. Probably many Americanized Polish clergymen will be invited to volunteer.

The Catholic diocese of New York probably will be asked to adopt St. Catherine's Church in Petrograd, where Archbishop Zepiack and Vicar-General Butchkevitch officiated, but which is now closed, just as devastated French towns have been adopted by French and American cities. Other American dioceses similarly will adopt other Catholic churches in Russia. Doubtless the American Baptists and other churches will pursue the same policy, which will link Russia spiritually with America as they never before have been linked.

The Union Church.
Moreover, the Vatican is pushing the Union Church, that is the Russian Church, with the Russian language and ritual, and the American Institute, for the education of priests in the Russian rites. The institute is under the direction of Father Dherbigny, a French Jesuit specializing on Russia and author of a book called "The Russian New man."

In Siberia the Baptists are numerous, their huge "prayer houses" a striking feature of every large town. The "old believers" and other dissenters, formerly oppressed by the Russian official church, are now free and active, but very medieval, tending backward instead of forward. Despite all these, the orthodox church still included the vast majority of Russian Christians.

Origin of "Living Church."
The "living church" has not a religious driving force, and can lead only to atheism. It originated when the Soviet came into conflict with the Patriarch over the question of church treasures to promote famine relief. Patriarch Tikhon already had promised to give all treasures save the altar plate.

Indeed, he formed a committee of churchmen and laymen for that purpose. This committee informed the Soviet of their readiness to contribute the treasure, save the plate, which would be paid for in cash by the faithful at the Soviet's valuation. This communication was ignored by the Soviet, which acted exactly as when the Vatican offered Tschitcher-in money to the value of the Catholic churches' treasure.

The Soviet angrily dissolved the church committee and organized a bogus deputation of peasants from the famine region to appeal to the head of the Moscow Soviet, a Jew, to decree the confiscation of treasures. Leo Kamenetzki gladly acceded and a harsh dictatorial decree was issued.

The Soviet's object was not to raise money, so much as to place the church in a false position, get a good propaganda cry against it, and smash it, the bolsheviks profoundly hating the church which they regard as the Soviet's greatest enemy. The Soviet's "living church" refused to part with its riches to feed the hungry, and has been used continually since in newspaper, speeches and all forms of propaganda.

Cunning-Red Move.
The Reds have shown the utmost cunning throughout and were enormously helped in having all the press and publicity agencies in their hands, while the Patriarch, slow and unworried, was handicapped in being under arrest, unable to present his side of the case, or communicate with his bishops, his clergy and his people.

Under Patriarch Tikhon's direction the church council issued a decree opposing confiscation, but the police and soldiers rapidly enforced the Red edict everywhere, at the same time smashing church furniture and icons, shooting into crowds who resisted and arresting throughout the country many priests, some of whom were afterward executed or imprisoned. Soviet apologists say the priests were hiding the treasure, and would have hidden it all if the bolsheviks had not acted so rapidly, owing to the extreme passivity of the priests while the, this is doubtful.

The priests are passive, whereas the bolsheviks' wits have been sharpened by long years of dodging the police throughout the world before the revolution. Blaming the clergy for disturbances and loss of life caused by the bolsheviks, the Soviet arrested the Patriarch and Archbishop Nikanor of Moscow, together with several members of the church council. An unsatisfactory account was given in return as to how the official seizure of church treasure helped famine sufferers.

Reason for Exporting Grain.
Bolshevik anxiety over famine in the Ukraine, from whom Russia now exports grain, and recently made arrangements with an Italian for the exportation of 100,000 tons of grain from Black Sea ports, says that to the Italian, from whom he have the story: "We are exporting grain for political purposes. It will make a good impression upon the masses in Europe if our export of grain lowers the price of bread."

Yet it is estimated that 1,000,000 persons are still short of bread in the Volga districts, and will be for the next three months.

Metropolitan Benjamin of Petrograd and other priests and lay people have been arrested. Benjamin was shot, as was also Brusilov, the widow of Gen. Brusilov. These two martyrs displayed a courage equal to that of the Catholic Archbishop, though there was less protest from outside. Enter now the "living church."

One bishop and a number of priests hating Patriarch Tikhon visited him and induced him to resign, in order to save the lives of the priests imprisoned for resisting the decree of confiscation, though his resignation had no such result. Patriarch Tikhon delegated his duties to the Bishop of Yaroslavl. He, too, was arrested, and then the reformers seized direction of the church, forming themselves a church council, with the Bishop Antonine presiding.

The Bishop Antonine.
Antonine is an unbalanced character who several times has been under treatment for mental diseases. Indeed, he had been only a year before he entered into public disputes with the Soviet, and was sentenced to imprisonment at the Moscow trials, which gained many adherents, especially in the Ukraine, just at Petrograd it had two services every Sunday in St. Catherine's Church, attracting a small congregation.

NEW MISSOURI U.
HEAD FOR HIGHER
SCHOOL STANDARDS

Dr. Stratton D. Brooks
Thinks Quantity of Students
Should Be Reduced,
Quality Increased.

FAVORS MILL TAX
SYSTEM OF SUPPORT

Declares University Should Resist the Effort of Other Institutions to Get Its Faculty Members.

Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, a native Missourian, who has been president of the University of Oklahoma since 1912 and who will assume the presidency of the University of Missouri, July 1, thinks universities should seek to reduce the quantity and increase the quality of their students.

He told a Post-Dispatch reporter, after his election by the Board of Curators here yesterday afternoon, that he anticipated no immediate changes in the policy of the school. He is, however, committed to certain principles, which he says will determine his course. Among these are the separation of the university from politics by the mill tax system, careful selection of students by entrance requirements and academic standards, and a program of brisk competition with other State universities in the matter of retaining faculty members.

Author of School Texts.
Dr. Brooks will take to his new office years of experience as an educator which include superintendency of public schools in Boston and Cleveland, work in Illinois high schools and unusual success as an author of school text books.

He has made only one trip to the University of Missouri and, therefore, announced himself as unfamiliar with its faculty.

"My rule is, if a man is competent, let him alone," said Dr. Brooks. "Prevent other schools from getting him as long as you can. There is no reason why the University of Missouri should not hold its own in the competition of surrounding States."

"A faculty is more important than beautiful buildings. I know little of the university's affairs. From what I can learn it appears as though the school has been making time due to the unsettled condition of its administration. Columbia is a lovely town and I liked the men I met there. I anticipate no trouble in getting adjusted."

Dr. Brooks holds with numerous educators that the universities are dealing with too many students.

"It is no longer a question of How large is a school? but, How good is it?" he remarked. "I think that very necessary steps are being taken along that line. The maintenance of a scholastic ideal is the greatest fundamental in dealing with students. Intelligence tests have their province, but it is very limited. I would not think that a student's work during his first term is the best means of judging him."

The new president has been acquainted with certain difficulties his predecessor has had in getting generous appropriations from the State Legislature. He favors the Michigan plan of a fixed tax on the assessment valuation of the State, which guarantees to the university a minimum for support. He said he would recommend this plan. If such a policy is adopted, the university receives its proportion of all taxes by law, and need ask the Legislature for additional money only in emergencies.

Board in Session All Day.
The Board of Curators met all day yesterday. Dr. Brooks came here to confer with them. His name was the only one considered, a board member having received from former Gov. Herbert S. Hadley a letter declining to be a candidate for the place and explaining he thought his election would be taken as a political move.

The new president's salary is to be $12,500 a year, an advance of $2500 over any previous salary given at the university.

Apparently much of the discussion yesterday centered about a new salary schedule for the faculty.

The university has at its disposal $800,000 more than ever before and the plan is to use much of the money strengthening the teaching force.

When a reporter asked if he didn't think the most important fundamental of the American university was a good football team he at once said "Yes."

New President of Missouri University

place in Missouri does not appear on any obtainable map. Everett is a cross-roads town in Cass County and his recollection of it is hazy. He moved to Michigan at an early age. When a youth he walked 100 miles from his home to Ypsilanti to attend a normal school. After two years of work in this school he taught at Millbrook, Mich. He returned for two more years at the normal and then went to Danville, Ill., as principal of the high school.

After two years there he went back to Michigan and obtained a master's degree in 1904. Colby College awarded him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. The call to the presidency of Oklahoma University came in 1912. At the University of Oklahoma he is credited with being one of the founders of the school.

Dr. Brooks married, when he was 21 years old, Miss Marcia Stuart of Port Hope, Mich. He has four daughters, two of whom are married.

Letter from Hadley.
The letter from former Gov. Hadley to P. E. Burton of Joplin, chairman of the board of curators, follows:

"During the last month information has come to me from various sources that my name was being considered by the board of curators for the presidency of the State university. Many of my old friends in Missouri, both Democrats and Republicans, have written, urging that I accept the position. If tendered, and inquiring whether I would do so."

I have, in each instance answered that, while I felt that my health was now such that I would be equal to the work, I would not consider the position if my selection would be regarded by any conservative number of the people as a political appointment. While, from the advice I have received, I feel that it would not be so regarded by the public generally, or by a majority of the leading Democrats of the State, yet, I am confident that there is a considerable number who would so regard it."

"In view of this fact, I feel that it would not be for the best interest of the university, or myself, that I should become its president, and I therefore request that the board do not consider my name.

"I am very grateful to those members of the board and to my friends, who have complimented me by urging my appointment, and I sincerely hope that you will succeed in your effort to find a president, under whose leadership the university may continue its unimpeded usefulness to the people of Missouri."

All officers of the Board of Curators were re-elected yesterday.

Retirement From Oklahoma U. Had Been Expected.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., May 8.—The removal of Stratton D. Brooks as president of the University of Oklahoma has been anticipated since Gov. Walton recently reconstituted the University Board of Regents, presaging a sweeping reorganization.

Weeks ago it was reported that Dr. Brooks had been offered the presidency of the University of Missouri, but it was said he withheld acceptance hoping to remain at Oklahoma University, to the upbuilding of which he has devoted 11 years.

However, when the Governor placed a new board in control Dr. Brooks' retirement was accepted as certain.

Gov. Walton declared the educational policy of the State had to be removed from "political maneuvering."

"The university organization has been used against me by Yankee Republicans, and I believe it should be placed in Democratic hands," the Governor said.

When the Governor's intention to displace President Brooks became known, former students of the university protested. At a State-wide mass meeting of alumni in Oklahoma City Sunday, resolutions were adopted demanding his retention. As head of Oklahoma University Dr. Brooks received $7100 a year. His salary in Missouri will be $12,500.

The new Board of Regents will meet Thursday to select one of the deans as temporary president until a permanent successor to Dr. Brooks can be chosen, according to Ernest T. Bynum, counselor to Gov. Walton.

A new president may not be selected for six months or a year, it was said, owing to political conditions.

"It has been said the sort of an educator we want would decline the job in the present turmoil," Bynum remarked.

Real estate men in East St. Louis regard Harris as "lucky." "Just to think," they say, "that he obtained possession of the Well Weyand tract just a short time before the Levee Board decided to dig its ditch through the tract. And if he wasn't lucky enough to have the place platted as a residence subdivision, which, of course, enhanced its financial value."

Harris said he was not "lucky." He told a Post-Dispatch reporter, when questioned, that he believes Pershing place is one of the most desirable sections of East St. Louis for residential purposes, and that he intends to get his price from the Levee Board or go to court.

REPLATTED IN NAME

Property at Eightieth and State Streets Recently Was division for Second Time.

The Board of Trustees of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, in charge of the construction of the $8,000,000 "Baby Panama" drainage canal along the foot of the bluffs east of East St. Louis and adjacent communities, has under consideration the purchase of a 100-acre tract of land which recently was offered on the real estate market of East St. Louis for $40,000, but for which the owner now demands $150,000 and damages which would bring the total purchase price to $150,000.

The tract, at Eightieth and State streets, originally belonging to George F. Weyand of Belleville who, in 1905, platted it into a residence subdivision, and called it Weyand place. He tried to sell lots in the subdivision, but there being no demand for residential property in that part of East St. Louis, he decided to sell on an acreage basis. He asked $500 an acre, which had been able to sell at that price, would have brought him $50,000.

Mortgage Foreclosed.
Six years ago Weyand lost the property through foreclosure of a $35,000 mortgage, and since that time the land had gone begging for purchasers. Six months ago it could have been bought for $40,000, real estate dealers say.

On Feb. 19 of this year there was filed with the Recorder of Deeds at Belleville what purported to be an affidavit by Mrs. Emma Wehring, of 704 North Thirty-fifth street, East St. Louis, that she, as owner of the land, had replatted it into a residence subdivision to be known as Pershing place.

Less than a month later, on March 7, the East Side Levee and Drainage Board decided to change the route of the $8,000,000 canal and passed an ordinance to that effect. The new route would carry the canal through Pershing place.

President Martin D. Baker of the Levee Board, delegated by the other members of the board to negotiate with the owner of Pershing place for the purchase of the property, discovered that Mrs. Wehring was merely the "dummy" or "straw" owner of the tract. She is employed as a bookkeeper in the real estate office of M. Lester Harris in East St. Louis, and Harris, who had obtained a quitclaim deed on the property by depositing $500 with the mortgagee, was the man with whom President Baker had to do business.

Names $100,000 as Price.
Harris named $100,000 as his price for the land and President Baker said that, although he considered the price unreasonably high, he would submit it to the board at his next meeting, which is to be held tomorrow. Harris also stated to Baker that he would ask for $8 per front foot damages to his land, if the canal goes through it, or an additional $50,000.

Harris, who was a candidate for the mayoralty nomination in East St. Louis in the February primaries, supported by the Ku Klux Klan, and who was defeated, is a brother-in-law of G. Locke Tarlton, who as a former president of the Levee Board, conceived and planned the canal project.

Real estate men in East St. Louis regard Harris as "lucky." "Just to think," they say, "that he obtained possession of the Well Weyand tract just a short time before the Levee Board decided to dig its ditch through the tract. And if he wasn't lucky enough to have the place platted as a residence subdivision, which, of course, enhanced its financial value."

Harris said he was not "lucky." He told a Post-Dispatch reporter, when questioned, that he believes Pershing place is one of the most desirable sections of East St. Louis for residential purposes, and that he intends to get his price from the Levee Board or go to court.

"The board has already instituted condemnation proceedings against the tract," said Harris. "Well, I'll fight the matter out. I have told them what I want for the land, and they've got to pay me my price. They can't run a ditch through my property unless they pay the price I demand."

President Baker said that, although he did believe Harris was asking a stiff price for the land, the taxpayers would be saved money if the tract was sold to the district.

U. S. ALONE CAN LIGHT WAY
FOR EUROPE, SAYS BRANDES

"Conceit and Self-Sufficiency Belong to Past"—
Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty Will Again
Mean Freedom, Critic Asserts.

This is the last of a series of four articles from the pen of George Brandes, famous Danish literary critic and publicist, who during the World War was known as the "very neutral" of Europe. Born in Copenhagen every year since his graduation from the University of Copenhagen he has travelled in Italy, Germany, Poland, Russia, England and the United States. He therefore writes with peculiar authority upon "The World Engulfed in Imperialism." The subject of this series.

By GEORGE BRANDES.
Translated by H. B. Hiller.

What height the political civilization of Europe had attained a hundred years ago compared with today may be seen if we consider that Europe had watched the French Revolution with exactly the same alarm and the same embittered feeling as the Western Powers now watch the Russian revolution, and that in consequence it had formed coalitions to check it, that, after this, during the time of Napoleon, it had been in a perpetual state of war till 1815, and yet had allowed France, after the fall of Napoleon, to keep her old boundaries unchanged. There was no intention economically to destroy France. The people and her new Government met with real well-wishing in Europe. At the congress in Vienna, Talleyrand was not only tolerated, but he soon was hailed as the center of the congress.

Who has visited Germany will have received the impression that the country is on the way of dissolution. One murder committed on the streets follows the other. It becomes impossible for the industry to go on, as coal is lacking. It is impossible to do business, for the valuta is steadily falling. In consequence of these circumstances thoughtful people are depressed, and the great mass of the population is demoralized.

The common man who in former times was honest and reliable has been filled with gloom for the middle class and inclines toward loafing and theft, and is being encouraged in this tendency by communist theories. The workmen do not feel like "killing themselves" if the proceeds of their work is to go to the enemy. Most naturally they will not live as slaves of the enemy. The officials who before the war were poor and proud are now poorer, a good many of them are without necessities, much less proud, they no more decline to be bribed as they did in former times.

Threatened by Hunger Riots.
The German Empire is threatened by hunger riots, pillaging of private property, economic and political chaos, and thereafter by brutal reaction.

And while all this is going on there thrives a movement among the young generation that is of a strange unworried kind, removed from reality. As Russia soon will produce nothing but sects, so does the young generation of Germany substantially produce revelations. They are absorbed in thoughts of the future, they are dreaming of the coming of a new religion, they are paying homage to glib and empty-thoughted prophets, they breathe easiest in the highest strata of metaphysics and theology, they cultivate Tagore's and Rudolf Steiner's not very profound wisdom, and Dostojewski's repulsive enjoyment in humiliations, i. e., they cultivate the mysticism of Asia and Half-Asia, they are eagerly futuristic in their art, but they do not contemplate how to deliver the country from the oppressions of the enemy. Still less do the intellectual youths begin with the beginning, as should be, reinstating honesty and by turning to the past, to the golden age of the past.

Germany is a republic where republican thinking must still be made to bud. A nation cannot change its ways of feeling in the course of a few years. More than a thousand years Germany was monarchistic, half a century imperialistic. It cannot expect to become republican in just because a few men write a constitution on a piece of paper. Do we not see the Russians, that were subject to the political police under the Czar, go on living in the same way under the so-called dictatorship of the proletariat, upon torture and execution, with the exception that the police force, which in former times was known under the name of Ochraná, is now called Tscheka. The political police has got worse even, and, by the way, is managed by the same men. Only the name is changed.

Old Ideals Disappear.
The old ideals of Europe have disappeared. Liberty is a defunct word, said Harris. "Well, I'll fight the matter out. I have told them what I want for the land, and they've got to pay me my price. They can't run a ditch through my property unless they pay the price I demand."

President Baker said that, although he did believe Harris was asking a stiff price for the land, the taxpayers would be saved money if the tract was sold to the district.

There is no other salvation for Europe but America taking its economic political affairs into hand instead of leaving the perished Continent to its fate. Officially, they always talk of morals in politics. Morals are the first and last work in political phrases. In truth the word "morals" in the political language signifies "advantage," seldom there was never much to be seen of it; but they have kept and increased their prosperity and after a short sun eclipse they have safeguarded their wholesome political ideals.

Greater Poison Than Rum.
Even the opium war against China, in or about 1840, probably the most immoral of all immoral wars, was waged in the name of morals. The official object was to force China to keep certain obligations, the practical object was to force as much opium as possible down the Chinese throats.

In our days a campaign is going on in Norway and in America against a relatively harmless poison—against alcohol.

There is another poison which would be more profitable to fight against in behalf of the peaceful future of mankind—the political phrase which is the synonym for political lies, saying morals when it means imperialism.

What good does it do mankind to prohibit wine if it clings to the consumption of hypocritical phrases? Has anything positively been gained by all the old experiences we have gone through? It would be unreasonable to doubt it. Germany's almost crazy arrogance has been doctored.

Three examples: It is inconceivable today, as happened in the small Polish town of Wrenia, that the teacher would reach into the mouth of children to force them to say their prayers in German and not Polish any more; it is inconceivable that Germany, having a discontented province as Alsace, would have the army authorities step in to back up the German language; it is inconceivable that beer in such abundance and with such results that an 11-year-old boy called "beddler" after him, whereas the officer ran after the child with sword unsheathed, and a Eurasian affair ensued.

It is inconceivable that something on this order might happen again. A Danish lady, Miss Ed. Dinesen, has rendered a song by Gries in Norwegian, which she has written with bare shoulders to the train instead and sent north.

Brutal Deeds Over.
There are good reasons why, but stupid, brutal deeds are over, but Luther said: "The world is like a drunken peasant; help him to climb on his horse on one side and he will fall on the other."

If we are told by way of consolation to think not in decades but in centuries, the world is like a drunken peasant; help him to climb on his horse on one side and he will fall on the other.

by the State and the community that I lose the desire and the impetus to work. A far too great part of the profit goes to them.

In Germany the taxes are so high that all business would stop if the business men were wholly and completely honest toward the State. There is only one power (the United States) which, after emerging from the crisis, has kept its equilibrium. The States have not exactly kept their liberty; in that sweet land of liberty founded by Puritans there was never much to be seen of it; but they have kept and increased their prosperity and after a short sun eclipse they have safeguarded their wholesome political ideals.

If we are told by way of consolation to think not in decades but in centuries, the world is like a drunken peasant; help him to climb on his horse on one side and he will fall on the other.

Finally, we must not overlook less concrete realms of civilization where new things begin to thrive in all countries. In Italy, Guglielmo Lancia's Rassegna Internazionale; in France, the group around Claret and Barbuse; and the other group around Romain Rolland. As yet they are weak, some time they will be a power.

Most of all I believe in the future of the United States. The decisive trait is the energetic self-sufficiency belonging to the past.

Take a book such as "Civilization in the United States," a work written by 20 young Americans and three young Europeans. It criticizes every single phase of life in the States from beginning to end, and, in plain, simple, literature, art, the press everything. It would be unthinkable that such a work could appear in the self, self-admiring, egotistical, narrow-minded Denmark. That is a good foreboding.

Memorable self-criticism is a passing stage on our leading to a better future. Time will come when Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty will again light the way.

The board had to pay twice the amount Harris has asked.

"Under the former routing of the canal the board would have had to pay $400,000 for right of way," said President Baker. "We chose the new route because the old one ran into the city waterworks and that was not considered feasible. Under the old routing we had more than 145 individual property owners to deal with in buying right of way, but under the new routing we have only a few owners to do business with, as most of the ground through which we now intend to dig is vacant and cut up into large tracts."

Mrs. Wehring, Harris' bookkeeper, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that she did not know her name had been used in the replatting of the tract into a subdivision, but, she added, real estate men frequently use names of their employees in real estate transactions as a matter of convenience.

which cannot be destroyed without also injuring the bodies it dwells in. Lvoft an Imp of Mischief.

I know Lvoft personally. He was with Admiral Kolchak but couldn't get a job and therefore joined the bolsheviks. The mixup leading to the Kerensky-Korniloff quarrel was due to Lvoft's intrigues and misrepresentation.

Vvedensky, a popular preacher, I also know, with his theatrical manner, inexhaustible verbiage and his habit of dragging into his sermons quotations from Shaw, Nietzsche and Jack London. He is not a Luther nor a Calvin. The reform program is vague, but he declares: "Christ was a bolshevik, and we must return to the Christianity of the first three centuries." Nevertheless, Vvedensky is not a bolshevik, but wants to keep the church apart from the bolshevik Government. He wants married Bishops and services in modern Russian, instead of the old Slavonic.

Archbishop Yevdokin of Novgorod, a restless prelate of liberal views, served the Russian church in New York and, curiously, like the Patriarch, also lived long in New York as a Russian priest; but he learned no English, leading a sequestered life of study and prayer. He impressed me when I saw him as if he had never left a Russian monastery, though he had traveled over America and Alaska, giving spiritual help to the Russians and not mixing in American life.

Foes of the Patriarch.
But Yevdokin's religious convictions are unsettled, and not improved by his residence in New York. He is bitter against the Patriarch, whom he accuses of being reactionary, and besides, he wants a married clergy. Yevdokin and Vvedensky will testify at the trial that the Patriarch is dangerous and reactionary. I saw their written statement to that effect in Tikhon's dossier. They may appear personally in court. Yevdokin also wants a "return to primitive Christianity."

(Dr. Tikhon was unfrocked by the All-Russian Church council May 3. His civil trial still is to be held.)
The reformers at Moscow called a general church council last year. It was well packed with sympathizers of the soviet assisting. This council reorganized the church, making each congregation into a sort of laymen's soviet, which should maintain a church and a priest. It formed also a new supreme church council consisting of three Bishops, five priests and five laymen. This council being pro-bolshevik, many monasteries have been closed and monastic celibacy has been abolished.

The reformers are now split into about six churches—the Church of Regeneration, the Labor Church, Apostolic Church, etc., some more bolshevik than others. Hardly two of the reformist leaders belong to the same church, but the soviet Government keeps the leaders together by insisting that they all work together as the church council.

Intellectuals' Religion.
The Moscow Cathedral and many churches in towns and country districts are now in the hands of the "living church," but I noticed little change in the services, save that they were simpler and in modern Russian. The intellectuals, who formerly were largely agnostics and new religious, but they do not attend the reformed churches, frequenting instead monastic churches, which keep all the old ritual.

Religion is losing its grip on the common people in the towns, but such as attend church are indifferent to the reformist or not. Though out the country the priests readily join the reform, but continue their old observances.

There is no complete break on a vital point, as at the time of the Russian Reformation, and the leading dogmas, like incarnation and transubstantiation, are not attacked. The attitude of the Red leaders toward the reformed church differs. Lunacharsky, polished in literature, is skeptical but interested; but Trotsky, Radok and the majority of leaders regard the reformed church with even greater contempt than the old, and do not hide their contempt. In this they are intellectually honest, at least without hypocrisy.

Disdaining subtlety, they prefer a smashing frontal attack, and they want to crush every church as if with a steam roller, though were they crutier they could injure the church more and gain power of two peasant masses by using the church for bolshevik purposes.

Lenine's Contempt for Church.
Lenine's contempt for the church is measureless, his first impressions having been gained from the priests on the Volga. His colleagues are in the same condition. Evidence of their complete misapprehension of the religious power of the West and America is to be found in their unbounded astonishment at the American execution of Father Butchkevitch. The red leaders are very sure that education will destroy religion. They regard religion as beneath contempt, never attacking it directly, though they incidentally just in their speeches about God, uncorrupted bodies and saints. Hence the antireligious campaign is left to a group of obscure atheists, Prof. Stepanov, et al. This differentiates the Russian reformation from the English, where Henry VIII was a keen theologian.

The reds do not persecute the reformed church, but permit the reformers to lecture as much as they like. Vvedensky and Krasenskiy, heavy bulleheaded men, are continually lecturing in theaters and halls on vaguely religious subjects of popular appeal, like "Should Girls Marry?" "Was Christ Divine," etc., drawing tremendous audiences.

Cheka Chiefs Amused.
At these lectures I saw the chiefs of the Cheka highly amused, for the speeches were made under bolshevik auspices and contained nothing to which the bolsheviks could object. On the contrary, there were flattering passages about communism.

Some of these reformers flatter themselves they are doing good in keeping the church active, which otherwise would have been annihilated, but they are mistaken in believing that the soviet will tolerate anything like real Christianity, for bolshevik materialism is the deadliest enemy to anything smacking of supernaturalism or mysticism; and bolshevik control of the situation, to which the reformers do not object, makes the church's disappearance inevitable, if the soviet lasts. Nearly all independent minded clergymen have been killed or exiled, and a large proportion of the remainder, tired out by persecution or burdened with large families, are yielding in a compromising spirit. The church's collapse is probable, but something greater may arise from its ruin.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR CHILDREN

Schools Established by Americans in Cuba and Republican Form of Government Set Up—Americans Again Occupy Island When New Revolution Is Threatened.

A CUBAN HIGHWAY.

By HENDRIK VAN LOON.

Author of "The Story of Mankind."

(Copyright, 1923, by the Christy Walsh Syndicate.)

It was New Year's day, 1899, more than a month before the peace treaty between Spain and the United States was finally signed, when the Spanish flag was lowered in Havana and the American flag run up in its stead. It had been agreed at the peace conference in Paris that, although Cuba was to be free, the United States should act as nursemaid and tutor to the infant republic until it was able to stand on its own feet.

Many years of Spanish misrule had left the island in a sad state. Military rule was now established, and American engineers set promptly to work to improve the shocking sanitary conditions. The yellow-fever-bearing mosquito, discovered by Maj. Walter Reed of the U. S. A. Medical Corps (who sacrificed himself for the sake of humanity), was exterminated, and the mysteries of a drainage system were explained to bewildered natives, who had never before heard of such a thing.

As two-thirds of the entire population were unable to either read or write (the Spaniards had wasted little of the island's revenue upon such a useless luxury as a public school system), schools were established all over the island, and the children herded into them.

The most difficult task before the American Government was to convince the members of the old Spanish party that the natives were in any way fitted to take a hand in the Government. By way of compromise, therefore, the right to vote was given only to those natives who could read and write (as we just remarked, only a third of them were able to do so), or who owned property to the value of $250 (this did not increase the percentage of voters very much) or to those who had been in the army of liberation.

In the fall of 1900, a convention met and adopted a republican form of government, patterned more or less upon our own. There were to be two houses of Congress, a President and a Supreme Court.

The Cubans seemed to be learning rapidly, but the United States still feared that after the support of American military control were withdrawn the island might once more be upset by internal difficulties. We therefore demanded that the Cubans make a few additions to their Constitution, namely, that they would never allow any foreign Power to get a foothold in the island and that the United States might have the right to see to it that they behaved in an orderly manner and paid their debts.

On May 20, 1902, the first President of Cuba, Thomas Estrada Palma, took the place of the American Military Governor, and our army, its work finished, came home. For a few years all went well, but in 1906, when it was time to elect a new President, trouble again. President Palma's honest efforts to make his fellow citizens comply with the laws had made him very unpopular among many of his former soldiers. They now took up arms to prevent his re-election. This was certainly not behaving in an orderly manner, and President Roosevelt sent American troops, once more to Cuba, and appointed a Military Governor in President Palma's place.

This time the Americans remained in the island for three years, but, in 1909, a new Cuban President was elected and took the oath of office and from that day on peace and harmony prevailed in Cuba. The popular Latin-American sport of "revolution" is denied to the poor islanders. Enthusiasts of this game know that the first pop of a revolutionary rifle will bring a transport full of American soldiers to their shores. And so they pay their taxes and cultivate their farms and send their children to school, and have to deny themselves the luxury of "going agin the Government."

Readers who clip and preserve these articles will have a splendid collection of historical facts. Valuable for reference or for supplementing the study of history by children.

"Blue and crimson and white it shines
Over the steel-tipped, ordered lines.
Hats off!
The colors before us fly,
But more than the flag is passing by."

It is more than a flag; it is the emblem of our unity, our power, our thought and purpose as a nation.

There are days approaching:

Decoration Day, May 30;
Flag Day, June 14, and July 4th—

—when every skyscape should, in fluttering, waving flags, attest the fealty and love of a loyal nation.

Every church, every lodge, every factory, every boy scout camp, every club and every home should have the colors to display on such occasions.

To make it easily obtainable and without cost, this bank, in encouragement of such patriotic tendencies, has secured 2000 handsome American flags to distribute to new savings customers.

EASILY CARRIED
Comes neatly packed—flag, pole, rope and holder. A compact bundle; no trouble to carry.

A Flag Given Free

These "Handy Dandy" flags are the most popular on the market. We placed our order months ago to be sure of a supply.

Not a plaything or a novelty, but a strong, fully-fashioned, size 3x5, sewed fabric flag of fast colors.

No cumbersome bundle to carry. Each one comes packed in a neat, easily-carried box, complete with holder, rope and jointed pole.

Every new savings customer depositing $10 or more in a permanent account will be given one of these flags without cost.

Because of limited supply, only one to a person.

Offer opens today. Savings Department open Mondays until 6:30 P. M.

HERRIN WITNESSES ON STAND AT SPRINGFIELD

Legislative Committee Adjourns After Summoning Hugh Willis, Mine Union Officer.

By the Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 8.—The legislative committee appointed to investigate the Herrin riot of last June is in an adjournment today, subject to call of its chairman. A subpoena for Hugh Willis, executive board member of the Illinois miners, returnable June 15, has been issued that Willis, now vacationing in Hot Springs, Ark., may reply to testimony of survivors of the riot, who have been before the committee.

Robert Tracy, one of the four survivors of the shooting at the Southern Illinois Coal Co.'s mine, charged that Willis, in an automobile, arrived at the scene and cautioned the mob not to "kill them here," but "take them over in the wood and kill them all."

Four residents of Williamson County, three of whom appeared before the committee at its sessions in Marion, were questioned again yesterday in the presence of H. F. Fullenweider, Assistant State's Attorney of Sangamon County. The four were: Melvin Thaxton, Sheriff at the time of the riot, recently elected County Treasurer; Fox Hughes, vice president of the Herrin miners' local; John Shaffer, Deputy Sheriff; and Edward Williams, a miner.

Stenographer Testifies. Maud Graham, stenographer in the office of Carlos E. Black, Adjutant-General, reading from her stenographic records, told the committee that Col. Sam Hunter, attached to Gen. Black's staff, reported to Williamson County three days before the riot that he thought there would be trouble. Adjutant-General Black commanded Col. Hunter to make the Sheriff do his duty, she said.

Col. R. J. Shand, Assistant Adjutant-General, testified that Wednesday night, June 21, the day the first three union miners were shot, the Chicago Herald and Examiner called him up on the long-distance telephone and asked him if troops had been sent and informed him that there was going to be trouble at the mine. He said he informed Gen. Black, but the latter said the report was all wrong, as Col. Hunter had just reported that everything was all right.

All of the Williamson County men, except Williams, had testified previously at sessions in Marion and had been severely criticized by members of the committee for their "anti-agonistic" attitude. Yesterday they were accompanied by three of the lawyers who had represented the defense in the two murder trials resulting from the riots: George R. Stone, Rufus Neeley and A. C. Lewis. Stone objected to repetition of questions previously asked the witnesses, declaring that members of the committee had said that the purpose of bringing them to Springfield was so that they could be prosecuted for perjury in Sangamon County. Frank McCarthy overruled the objection, declaring that the committee would determine its own procedure without outside assistance.

Former Sheriff on Stand. Former Sheriff Thaxton testified that he did not hear about raiding for arms of Herrin and Marion hardware stores until after the slayings. He said that the evening before he had gone to the State's Attorney's office and had heard of a true arrangement by Col. Hunter.

"Did you tell Col. Hunter you did not want troops because it would hurt your candidacy for County Treasurer?" Thaxton was asked. "No sir."

"What single thing did you do to save the lives of these men?" "Well, I was around."

"Yes, you were around everywhere but where you ought to have been," said Representative Igou.

"Do you think now you should have asked for troops?" "Well, I don't know."

Shaffer was asked what he had done in the evening after the slayings. "I was on duty all evening," "Just going around from place to place," "Tells of Visit by Sheriff. Cairns said that while he was lying wounded after 14 of the nonunion men had been shot down, Sheriff Thaxton came up and asked him if he could travel, and he replied in the affirmative.

"The crowd yelled: 'Make him walk,' but someone else said: 'Here, fellows, the Sheriff has been pretty good to us and we ought to quit now.'" Cairns said.

Why divide the family at breakfast?

WHY take coffee for yourself, while saying "No" to the children? It is true, as most parents are careful to explain, that little folks should not endanger health and growth through the drug element in coffee and tea, but—

Your health is valuable, too—and their desire for a hot drink with breakfast may be as great as yours.

There's complete satisfaction in Postum, and safety alike for young and old. Postum is a pure cereal beverage. It is coffee-like in color and flavor, but free from any element that can harm. Thousands who are now saying "No" to themselves as well as to the children, as a safeguard against coffee-ills, have found better comfort and better health, in Postum.

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either is about one-half cent a cup.

Quick Results Sure if You Do Like Thousands of Women Who Praise Black and White

Don't worry and fret about your complexion. It is possible now to make that rough, blotchy, unpleasant skin smooth and soft. You will just use a little common sense and do like so many thousands of women are doing all over the country.

Blackheads, pimples and other skin troubles are nothing more than you are doing when you neglect the care of your skin every day. You seem to take it as a matter of course that your complexion is to always be just right, without thought of the care it must have to stay away the many outside influences that hurt the delicate tissue of the complexion.

But using just something is what many girls and women make their mistake. Treatments which promise "fast results" beauty are often worse than you don't use anything at all, because they must be harsh to work so quick when they are the skin suffers.

Millions of packages of Black and White Creaming, and Peroxide Cream, and Face Powder, are sold every year to girls and women who have found their real toilet necessities. The Creaming Cream keeps their skin clean by removing every particle of the dirt, grease and things that hurt the complexion. The Peroxide Cream keeps the skin clean, white and firm, perfect for the day and night. Black and White Face Powder gives the complexion a natural glow.

Kellogg's Bran gives permanent relief because it is ALL BRAN!

Every member of your family will enjoy better health—eat better, work better, sleep better—if they eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. It's natural, positive work for health is actually a blessing to humanity! Kellogg's gives permanent relief from constipation because it is ALL BRAN! It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation.

Kellogg's Bran cleans and purifies the drainage channel; it clears away toxic poisons and frees you from the ravages of such dread diseases as Bright's, diabetes, etc., as well as sick headache, rheumatism and mental and physical depression. A week's trial of this great nature food will prove that its work for health is wonderful! Consider Kellogg's Bran as a food. It is not a laxative nor a medicine. Bran is the outer coating of whole wheat and contains such nourishment factors as mineral salts and other elements vital in sustaining life!

Kellogg's Bran is cooked and all ready to eat. It is delightful as a cereal, or sprinkled over your favorite hot or cold cereal. Another popular way to eat it is to cook or mix it with a hot cereal. In preparation, add two tablespoonsful of bran for each person. Delicious bakery batches are made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

DO TWO THINGS—Eat Kellogg's Bran each day for permanent relief from constipation and be certain to eat at least two tablespoonsful; in chronic cases, with each meal.

First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers.

Elgin Strap Watches for Men: Cased in Gold, Gold-filled, and Silver. Prices ranging from $15. to $75.

From Elgin—to You—for the Young Man at Graduation

OUT of a great deal of experience these facts may help you in selecting the graduation present:

Graduation is a rarer thing than Christmas. It is more significant than any holiday. The graduation gift should have a lifetime meaning.

Many young men receive their first watch when they graduate.

It is a pity so many graduation timepieces have to be discarded a few years after.

And it is a beautiful idea that some graduation watches are carried the rest of their owners' lives.

Watchmaking is a profession.

It takes a year or more to make an Elgin Watch.

The procedure is very similar to laboratory work—so far away from factory methods that no terms of commercial manufacture apply.

People call the Elgin "The professional timekeeper."

It is the natural reaction of carrying a timepiece of authority.

W. L. STURDEVANT NEW BAR ASSOCIATION HEAD

He Automatically Becomes Member of Citizens' Board Supervisory Committee.

Willard L. Sturdevant of the law firm of Sturdevant & Sturdevant, Central National Bank Building, who was elected president of the St. Louis Bar Association, at a meeting at the University Club last night automatically becomes a member of the Citizens' Supervisory Committee, which is in charge of the $17,372,500 bond issue, by virtue of his office.

Sturdevant, who resides at the Buckingham Hotel, came to St. Louis from Indiana in 1894. He has been active in work for the blind. Gov. Hyde appointed him to represent Missouri on the General Council of the American Bar Association and he is a member of the Uniform State Laws Committee of that association.

Other officers elected were: Vice presidents, Guy A. Thompson, the retiring president, and George C. Wilson and Frank H. Flase; secretary, James J. Seely; treasurer, Robert J. Kratzky; member of Executive Committee, J. M. Lashly; members of the Committee on Admissions, Arnold J. Arthur Freund and E. E. Shewenger.

Among recommendations made by Thompson in his report for the year were:

Creation of a special committee of criminal law, to survey those laws under which St. Louis courts operate and consider the advisability of a further survey by experts, to go into the methods of dealing with crime.

Prompt appointment of a committee to propose amendments to the rules for governing the next "primary" among members of the bar to recommend judicial candidates.

Creation of a committee to consider steps for the work of the bar in connection with the filing of candidates for the State Legislature.

Organization of a speakers' bureau to spread information on the association's work to curb "ambulance chasing" lawyers and for higher standards of legal education; also circularization of every lawyer in the State for similar objects; Thompson pointed out that the greatest opposition in the Legislature to these objects came from lawyers. In addition, work for legislation on these subjects was recommended.

Appointment of a committee to consider the feasibility of the association establishing one or more legal scholarships.

Investigation of the practicality of the association acquiring its own home.

Appointment of a committee to investigate what steps can be taken to induce members to leave requests to the association in the wills.

Planning for the celebration of the association's fiftieth birthday, March 24, 1924.

Change of the association's attitude on various questions from negative to positive.

The members last night authorized the calling of a special session to determine the attitude, lawyers as to the selection of a site for the new courthouse to be erected under the bond issue. Persons familiar with both sides of the controversy over the location will be invited to speak, and it may be determined to hold a referendum among the lawyers to get a definite expression of their sentiment.

As is known, a certain element of the city is seeking to have the courthouse on the site of the old office at Broadway and Main street, while the suggestion of City Plan Commission, which before the voters when they put this bond issue item, was to put the Twelfth boulevard and Market street facing the projected Memorial Plaza.

Organization of a speakers' bureau to spread information on the association's work to curb "ambulance chasing" lawyers and for higher standards of legal education; also circularization of every lawyer in the State for similar objects; Thompson pointed out that the greatest opposition in the Legislature to these objects came from lawyers. In addition, work for legislation on these subjects was recommended.

Appointment of a committee to consider the feasibility of the association establishing one or more legal scholarships.

Investigation of the practicability of the association acquiring its own home.

Appointment of a committee to investigate what steps can be taken to induce members to leave bequests to the association in their wills.

Planning for the celebration of the association's fiftieth birthday, March 24, 1934.

Change of the association's attitude on various questions from negative to positive.

The members last night authorized the calling of a special meeting soon to determine the attitude of lawyers as to the selection of a site for the new courthouse to be erected under the bond issue. Persons familiar with both sides of the controversy over the location will be invited to speak, and it may be determined to hold a referendum among the lawyers to get a definite expression of their sentiment.

As is known, a certain element in the city is seeking to have the new courthouse on the site of the present office, at Broadway and Market street, while the suggestion of the City Plan Commission, which was before the voters when they passed this bond issue item, was to put it at Twelfth boulevard and Market street, facing the projected Memorial Plaza.

Wall Street News and Comment

SPECIAL DAILY

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Following the fairly sharp rally in the first three hours of business today the stock market slipped into comparative dullness.

Even during Monday's demoralization certain stocks, it was said, and begun to show a sold-out condition. Notable among these were American Locomotive, Standard Oil of California and Cuban-American Sugar.

Strength was shown by Standard Oil of California. Coston did better following the taking over of a single block of 10,000 shares at 46 1/2.

The Bond Market

Bond prices showed a slightly better tone today. This was especially marked in the very high-grade issues. It could not be said that any enthusiasm was shown on the buying side.

Delaware & Hudson Refunding

NEW YORK, May 8.—Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Kansas City Southern 4s and New York Edison 6 1/2s were examples of bonds on which today's demand centered.

United States Government Issues

United States Government issues were not so active as yesterday, but met with further declines. The process of readjusting yields to that offered by the new market notes has not yet been completed.

More Interest was Taken Today in the foreign situation than for some time. Foreign issues were inclined to be reactionary, notably the French cities issues, the Bordeaux, Lyons, Marseille 6s and the City of Solons 6s.

London Reports were to the Effect that French securities were weak in that market, where the outlook for an early settlement of the Franco-German dispute was not regarded as so bright.

Holder of the so-called Marconi sterling loan of 1919 are to be given the right to exchange their notes for one of the new bonds subject to the holder underwriting an amount of new bonds at 97 1/2.

Notes are now in default as to interest.

It is stated that part of the new issue will be reserved for American participation.

A few sales of the only Chinese issue listed in this market, the Kowloon Railway 5s, were made today at a fractional advance but they still remained the low of the year.

EJECTION SUIT PROBABLY SERVED ON "SPOONERS"

Plaintiff in Motion to Set Aside Judgment Says Previews Near Park Often Were Premised by Couples.

In a hearing in Circuit Judge Landwehr's court yesterday on a motion to set aside a judgment of ejection, an attempt was made to show that notice in the suit was probably served on "spooners" in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Brueggemann, 4523 Magnolia avenue, instead of upon them.

In October, 1921, Harrison K. Bunch filed an ejection suit against the Brueggemanns on Oct. 18. When the case was called for trial the Brueggemanns did not appear.

A Deputy Sheriff testified that he served notice of the suit on a couple getting out of an automobile on the driveway at the Brueggemann residence, but was unable to identify Mr. and Mrs. Brueggemann.

Two Injured When Passenger Train Crashes Into Freight

Traffic Over Toledo, St. Louis & Western Detoured Over Illinois Central.

Two men were slightly injured this morning when train No. 41 of the Toledo, St. Louis & Western Railroad crashed into an extra freight train of the same railroad standing about 20 feet east of the station at Edwardsville, Ill.

The extra freight was picking up empty box cars on the siding. Three of the cars were destroyed. On account of the wreck, all service over the line will be detoured today through Glen Carbon, Ill., on the Illinois Central tracks. No. 41 is an accommodation train running between Charleston and St. Louis, and at the time of the collision was bound for this city.

CARELESSNESS VERDICT IN AUTO FATALITY CASE

Driver of Truck That Killed Woman Held to Grand Jury Under $10,000 Bond.

A Coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness was returned today in the death of Mrs. Jennie Johnson, 55 years old, a widow, who was struck at noon Saturday at Easton and Goode avenues by a cleaner's delivery truck driven by Eugene Casaroli, 23, of 3822 Kennerly avenue. Gastori was placed under $10,000 bond to the grand jury.

Mrs. Johnson, who lived with her son, Clarence, of 1432A Pendleton avenue, died of a fracture of the skull Saturday night at City Hospital. Witnesses testified their attention was drawn to the truck by its speed, and that it ran 30 to 40 feet after striking Mrs. Johnson. An automobile was turning out from the north curb, a westbound automobile had to swerve to avoid it, and Gastori, driving eastward, had to swerve to avoid the westbound machine, they said. The traffic was such that some witnesses were under the impression Mrs. Johnson was more than the sum.

MORE IRISH REBELS TAKEN

DUBLIN, May 8.—A roundup of Irish irregulars is progressing in the mountains near Blessington, County Wicklow, where large numbers of them are reported to be hiding, according to reports received by the Central News. More than a dozen prisoners were brought into Blessington.

PERSONAL contact is essential to the growth of complete understanding.

When business operations and business organizations were small, the employer could know his employees personally and the merchant could know his customers. All had the advantage that comes from the intimacy of close, personal acquaintanceship. Misunderstandings were easily adjusted. Every man knew every other man as a citizen and as a friend and there was no suspicion of motives.

Today, when big enterprise is the order of business; when large accumulations of capital are essential to the accomplishment of undertakings of real value to the public, the several groups are denied the advantage of this personal contact.

Recognizing this handicap, the management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has established a system of direct personal contact with the great body of employees and through them, with the public.

The management maintains close, personal relations with the employees through the Department of Industrial Relations, where the employer and employee get together on common ground to discuss and settle, in friendly conference, questions of mutual interest.

To promote still closer relationship, the Board of Directors, as a body, make frequent visits to refineries and to the field, where they meet and confer with the great body of employees.

The value of this personal contact is reflected in the harmonious relations which exist between the Company and the earnest, loyal, hard-working employees, who thrifty invest their savings in the Company's business and who have added interest in seeing that the Company's customers get efficient service.

ST. LOUIS FROM THE AIR

Photographs From an Army Dirigible
Made Exclusively for the Post-Dispatch

A GREAT HORTICULTURIST'S JUBILEE

(1) A recent picture of Luther Burbank, America's "plant wizard," whose fiftieth anniversary as a creator of new plants will be celebrated at Santa Rosa, Cal., May 17-20, with a pageant and fair. (2) Miss Dorothy Seawell, daughter of Associate Justice Emmet Seawell of the California Supreme Court, who has been elected queen of the Burbank pageant.

—Boys Portraits.

Copyright, 1923, by the Pulitzer Publishing Co. (The Post-Dispatch).

THIS air photograph, made from the army dirigible SST, now stationed at Scott Field, by Clint Murphy, Post-Dispatch staff photographer, shows most prominently the City Hall group of buildings and the site which is to be made the Memorial Plaza under the plans approved by the voters in the February bond issue election.

In the left foreground are the Children's Building, City Jail and Municipal Courts Building, and at the right the City Hall, the resemblance of which to its Parisian model, the Hotel de Ville, is plainly noticeable. Beyond the Municipal Courts Building, and almost hiding the white front of the Central Library, are the intervening three blocks of old structures, to be demolished in the making of the Plaza. The space between the City Hall and Pine street is also to be cleared.

Details which may be noted in the picture are the roof and tower of Christ Church Cathedral, the Post-Dispatch Building and adjoining Twelfth boulevard buildings, the twin towers of St. Joseph's Church, the new Rice-Stix Building, and, in the distance, dimly distinguishable, grain elevators along the river and the McKinley and Merchants' Bridges.

How to Cook Trout

THE trout season is now open and this fish is highly esteemed by cooks. Good trout is of a flesh for and the spots are very bright. After they are thoroughly washed they may be boiled, fried or broiled. They should not be seasoned until after they are cooked and then only with salt.

sauce for fried trout is blending one tablespoonful with one-third cup butter, salt and taste and two finely chopped parsley; stir in one tablespoonful.

BOILED TROUT.
Trout are to be broiled score a the back; then rub in oil and broil slowly about 10 minutes. Serve with drawn butter.

BOILED TROUT.
Trout are delicious when add salt to water and boil 15 to 20 minutes, to size. Serve with maitre sauce.

Chatterer's Painful Surprise

By Thornton W. Burgess

Greedy is seldom very wise; 'Tis always open to surprise.

CHATTERER the Red Squirrel was greedy. Chatterer was cruel. He didn't think of being cruel. In fact, he didn't think anything about it. Cruel people often are cruel because they do not think. Chatterer wanted eggs to eat, and he meant to get those eggs in any way he could. So as he climbed up to the home of Drummer the Woodpecker in the maple tree in Farmer Brown's dooryard his one thought was to get a breakfast of those eggs that he felt sure were in Drummer's home.

"I hope there is a lot of them," thought Chatterer, as he climbed. "There can't be too many to suit me. I have chosen just the right time, for with Drummer out of the way it will be an easy matter either to kill Mrs. Drummer on the nest or to scare her away. She probably is sitting on those eggs, so I will have to surprise and kill her before I can get the eggs."

Chatterer was in such a hurry and so sure of himself that he wasn't even careful. He started to put his head in at that doorway without first looking to see that everything was as it should be. The instant his nose appeared in that doorway Mrs. Drummer, who was waiting just inside, drove that sharp, stout bill of hers straight at Chatterer's nose. Chatterer didn't have time to duck. He was so taken by surprise, and the blow of that bill hurt so, that he actually let go his hold. With a little cry of pain he fell down to a branch below.

Then Drummer came home. Long before he reached the maple tree he heard Chatterer's voice, and guessed where he was. Drummer's heart came right up in his mouth. How he did fly. As soon as he was near enough he saw Chatterer, and understood what he was trying to do. Drummer didn't hesitate a second. He headed straight for home, and landed on the trunk of the tree close to Chatterer. He hit him with his stout bill as hard as he could drive it. Then before Chatterer could recover from this new surprise Drummer took to his wings again and flew to another part of the tree.

Chatterer now had his hands more than full. He had more than he had bargained for. He couldn't watch Drummer and Mrs. Drummer at the same time. While he was watching one the other would take the chance to give him a sharp blow. Suddenly

A Pacific steamship that is noted for the fresh appearance of its flags gives out the information that it sends them to the laundry almost as often as it sends the table linen. On ship-board fog and smoke soon dim the bright colors of a flag.

When you lie awake, think of the secret of sound sleep

Thousands of men and women toss and turn for hours every night while sleep shuns them. They give endless reasons for their wakefulness: insomnia, overwork, nervousness, worry. Because genuine sleep comfort is unknown to them, few put the blame where it belongs—on a wretched, worn-out mattress or spring. They have yet to learn the quieting effect of a luxurious bed on exhausted nerves and bodies. Such super-comfort need not be costly.

Set aside enough time today to call on your furniture dealer and examine Simmons springs and mattresses of buoyant new material—now offered at prices to fit any pocketbook. Compare them with your own bedding and decide whether health, vigor and personal success are not worth the investment in Simmons sleep comfort.

MARATHON DISHWASHING.

SUE HETLOCK, on a summer's night,
Washed the dishes clean and bright.

To show that she was not a shirk,
She set the record for the work
At one-and-thirty hours straight
For other girls to emulate;

Or maybe try to beat her mark
If they were equal to the lark.

For "doing" dishes was to Sue
The greatest lark she ever knew.

Now, Susie couldn't dance a lick;
In fact, she said it made her sick.

To trip the light fantastic toe
She always thought was something low.

But washing dishes was her forte,
Her one and only indoor sport.

The Judge stood by and watched her work,
And favored Susie with a smirk.

And when the dishes had been did,
He said to Susie, "Oh, you kid!"

And when the final dish was dried,
He promptly claimed her for his bride.

She broke the record, not the dishes!
Hats off to Sue and best of wishes.

FAVORITE STORIES

WHAT THE DEFENDANT CRAVED.

A DARRY was up for pleading down South for a serious crime. Having been indicted, he was arraigned before the court and the case against him was called. It then developed that he had no counsel.

"Why have you engaged no attorney to defend you?" inquired the Judge on the bench.

"Judge," said the defendant, "I ain't got no money to be wastin' on lawyers. Dey tell me lawyers is kind of covetive."

"Well," inquired His Honor, "what do you propose to do, then, about the trial of your case?" The Prosecuting Attorney tells me he's ready to go ahead and impound a jury and present the evidence."

"Judge," answered the negro, "so far as I is concerned, you can jest let the matter drop right here."

But the Court explained that this would hardly do. He glanced about the room and his eye fell upon two striplings, newly admitted to practice and the youngest and least experienced members of the bar.

"I shall appoint Mr. Jones and Mr. Smith," he said, indicating the juveniles, "to represent you."

The prisoner eyed his attorneys doubtfully.
"Judge," he said, "I'd lak to mek you a proposition, please, suh."

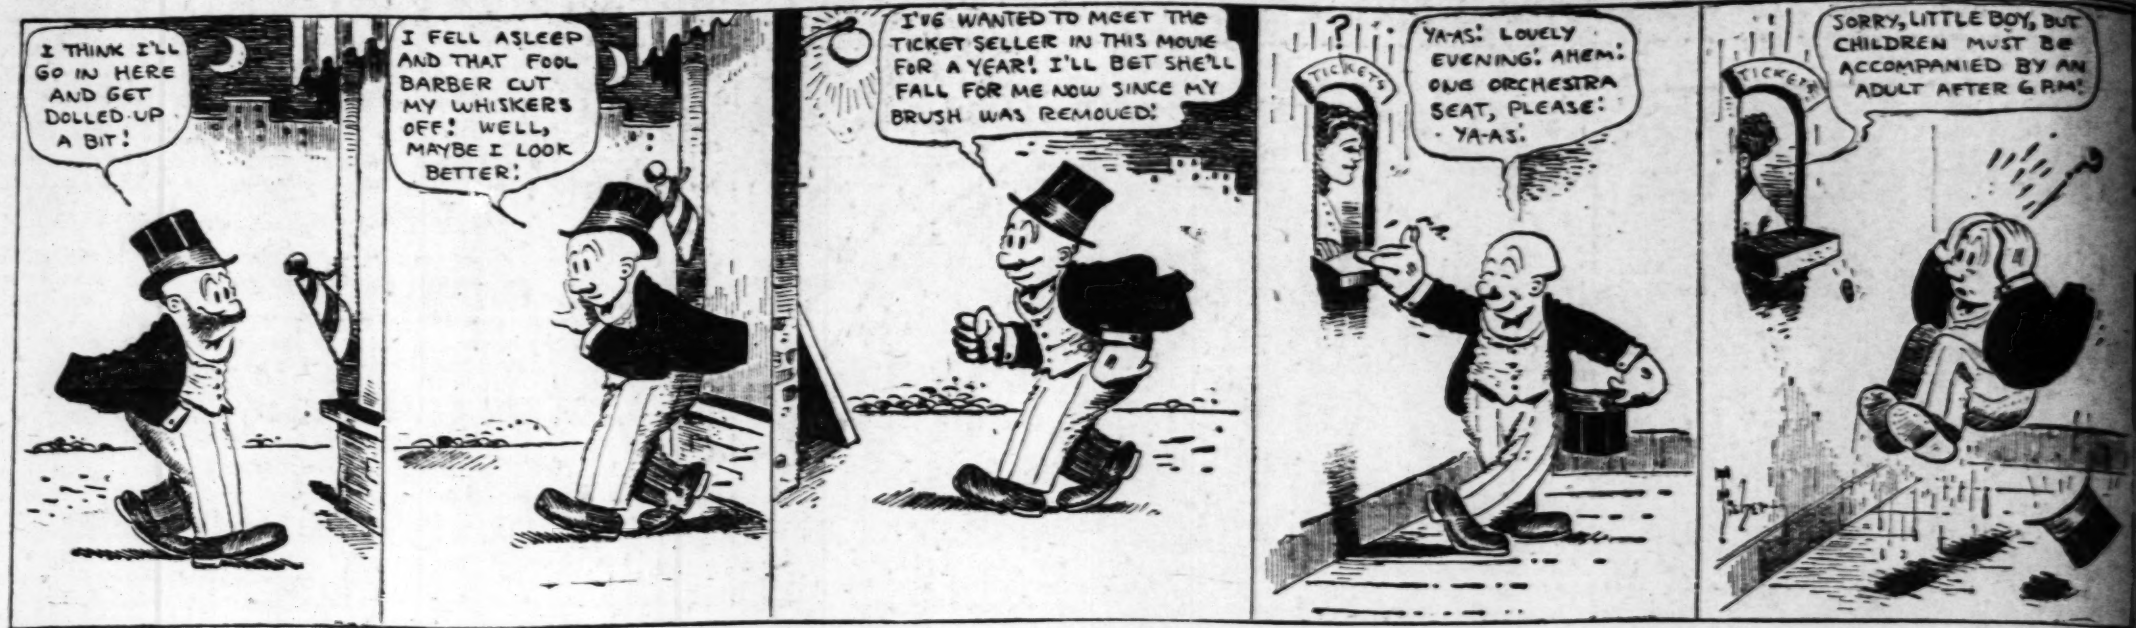

"State the proposition."

"I'd lak to trade you off one of dese yere lawyers fur a good witham."
